GENEVA LIFTS EMBARGO ON ETHIOPIA

GENEVA, Oct. 11—The decision of the League of Nations' Sanctions Committee to recommend the arms embargo against Ethiopia be lifted, followed a motion by the Canadian delegate, Howard Ferguson, seconded by Anthony Eden, of Great Britain, and Robert Coulondres, French financial expert, at today's important group session.

Kisses For Courage Is Final Boon For Soldier

Victory is sweet, but hardly any sweeter than the farewell kisses bestowed on the departing Tommies by their pretty sweethearts. Members of the 7th Hussars, the soldiers collected their tribute on leaving Feltham station, Hounslow, England, en route to Egypt, as Great Britain reinforced garrisons in the troublous Ethiopian areas.

Glory Hour Again Here For Mars In Ethiopia

ETHIOPIA CLAIMS ADUWA RETAKEN WITH MASSACRE

ROME, Oct. 11.—Italian officials today denied reports from Ethiopia that Aduwa had been recaptured with a massacre of the Italian garrison.

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 11.—Ethiopian troops were reported today to have stormed Aduwa last night and massacred the town's 2,500 Italian defenders.

The forces of Ras Seyoum, Ethiopian commander in the north, numbering 52,000 men, were reported to have surrounded Aduwa, which was captured Sunday by the Italians, and to have killed "every one" of the 2,500 defenders.

The Ethiopian losses were said to be heavy, but Ras Seyoum's fighters were reported to have captured large numbers of rifles, machine guns, artillery and ammunition.

The Italians were said to be planning a counter attack.

There was no immediate confirmation from Rome or other sources in Addis Ababa of the reported recapture of Aduwa.

The Ethiopian fighters, smarting under the loss of the historic city to the Italians, were said to have resorted to age-old tactics, striking under cover of darkness, falling on the enemy swiftly, and engaging in bitter hand-to-hand fighting in which spears and daggers were pitted against the modern bayonets of Mussolini's troops.

Huge Storages Of Ammunition Held In Djibouti

GENEVA, Oct. 11.—A general arms embargo against Italy and permission for Ethiopia to import all the war munitions she needs were ordered today by the full sanctions committee of the League of Nations. The committee represents every member of the league except Italy and Ethiopia.

At the same time a special subcommittee, consisting of France, Great Britain, Greece, South Africa, The Netherlands, Rumania and Poland, undertook to study the possibility of placing a financial boycott against Italy. Such a boycott might cover all loans and credits made by foreign nations to Italy.

Not only does the arms embargo apply to future shipments of war materials to Italy, but it applies to contracts already entered into.

Huge stores of arms destined for the Ethiopian government are reported stored in Djibouti, French Somaliland, where they were ordered held by the French government. Djibouti is only two days from Addis Ababa by train.

The immediate effect of lifting the embargo against Ethiopia would be that Emperor Haile Selassie's empire will be able to receive in the space of a very few days all kinds of armaments with which to carry on her defence against Italy.

The recommendations now must meet with the approval of the League committee, which is made up of every member of the League except Italy and Ethiopia.

By acting yet today, the committee will permit the entrance of arms into Ethiopia beginning tonight.

Italy's Mountain Neighbor Swears Allegiance to Mussolini

GENEVA, Oct. 11.—Albania, Italy's mountainous Adriatic neighbor, joined with Austria and Hungary in a declaration against the League of Nations condemnation of Italy and against any program of sanctions against Mussolini's nation.

The Albanian delegate, Madras Frasheri, minister to Rome, told the League assembly:

"Albania remains faithful to the covenant and fully appreciates the importance of upholding it, but in view of the situation arising from Albania's political alliance with Italy and the capital importance of close economic relations with Italy, particularly the Italian colonies, Albania regrets it cannot associate

Monks Mutter Maledictions On Fascist Invaders

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 11.—The fall of Aksum, ancient capital of the Queen of Sheba and storied shrine of the Holy Ark of the Covenant, was announced here by the Italian minister, Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci, who was then asked to leave for Italy by Haile Selassie.

Italy's great bombing planes, said reports which filtered out of Aksum before communication lines were cut, apparently spared that hallowed city, centuries old when Rome was born.

MONKS FLEE

Muttering maledictions on the Fascist invaders, Aksum's guardian monks scurried out of the city, bearing many of their sacred relics, these reports said.

It was the mystic Aksum legend has it, that Menelek, son of Sheba and Solomon, fled from Jerusalem bearing the true Ark of the Covenant and the Ten Commandments. There, eerie monolithic obelisks, once sacred altars, dot the valley and line the trail to the sacred mountains.

MORE BOMBING

Nine Italian planes said a government communique, bombed Gorahei, near Gerlogubi, on the southern front, and rained lethal projectiles on the Ethiopian posts of Taffarikatama and Jialmo, killing many. (The latter two towns are not shown on maps.)

ROME, Oct. 11.—A source close to the government said today that Italy will remain in the League of Nations unless sanctions of a military nature drive her out.

Wheat Payment Upon Election Day Bribe Declares Mr. King

TRAGIC ERROR BY BENNETT SAY OBSERVERS

Forecast of Union Govt. in Toronto Speech Excites Comment

OTTAWA, Oct. 11. — Political observers were astounded Wednesday night when in the course of a speech before 17,500 persons in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett made a statement tantamount to forecasting a national government.

His announcement was, that when he, as prime minister, meets the next parliament he "will invite all members of this house, without regard to party, and as members of this new house of commons, to devote themselves to the task of placing Canada on a firm and solid basis."

Observers have agreed that this was Mr. Bennett's most tragic mistake in the present campaign, with perhaps the exception of his reference to the many thousands of young men in federal work relief camps being paid twenty cents per day "which was more than most of them were entitled to receive."

Leading political spokesmen declare that Mr. Bennett's Toronto statement was a direct intimation the Prime Minister will hold on to office and refuse to resign before meeting parliament unless the Liberal party obtains a clear majority over all.

It is pointed out Mr. Bennett is quite within his constitutional rights in holding on to office if no single party can command a clear majority in the new parliament.

Bennett Union Govt. Forecast Draws Some Caustic Comment

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 11.—If money is distributed to western farmers from the Wheat Board on Monday it will be resented by the farmers more than anything else, Liberal leader Mackenzie King said here last night. It would be an attempt to bribe the farmers with their own money, if they were entitled to it at all, to vote for government candidates.

Mr King was referring to a report from Ottawa that $8,000,000 in wheat board profits was to be distributed to wheat pool farmers on account of the crops of a few years ago and that wheat board cheques would reach the farmers Monday.

ITALY BRANDED LAWBREAKER IN EYE OF WORLD

Lord Listowell Charges Breaking of Anti-War Pact

By THE EARL OF LISTOWELL
British Philosopher

LONDON, Oct. 11.—During the last three days 51 out of 56 nations who belong to the League of Nations have declared Italy violated article XII of the League covenant.

Instead of waiting for the League arbitration machinery to achieve a peaceful settlement of her quarrel with Ethiopia, Italy launched a brutal attack against that innocent, semi-defenceless African state.

Italy has also thus violated the Briand-Kellogg anti-war pact, which pledges those who have accepted it to "renounce war as an instrument of national policy."

Italy therefore stands condemned as an international law breaker by the public opinion of the civilized world. That opinion is now considering what pressure must be used to stop the invasion of Ethiopia and restore to her whatever territory the invader has seized.

OTTAWA, Oct. 11.—After 11,000 miles of campaigning through Canada, Rt. Hon W. L. Mackenzie King returned to Ottawa this morning to learn the most pessimistic of forecasts allocated 140 seats to the Liberal party in the next House of Commons.

There were definite assurances that Hon. H. H. Stevens is faced by defeat in East Kootenay at the hands of the veteran Liberal, Hon. Randolph Bruce, former Lieutenant Governor of British Columbia, and there were reports that Premier Bennett's chances in West Calgary are highly problematical.

PREMIER BENNETT'S TORONTO MANIFESTO FORECAST OF UNION GOVERNMENT

—An Editorial—

THE Conservative party will be "through" so far as Mr. Bennett is concerned when the votes have been polled on Monday. He issued the proclamation at Toronto on Wednesday, in language almost as explicit as that. He intends, he said, once the election is over to "invite every member of the House without regard to party to join me" in applying a policy of "rigid economy". Which policy he explained to include the "balancing of the budget" and action to prevent "a complete breakdown of our transportation system through the insolvency of our railroads." The country, he emphasized, had come to the place where its "salvation" requires desperate remedies.

These words can have only one meaning, thrown out as an election manifesto on the eve of polling. They were spoken in the headquarters of the "National Government" movement, and are obviously intended to be a pledge to the promoters of that movement that Mr. Bennett is their man. Having driven his Conservative followers into open rebellion, as he has driven the country into the confusion of distress, the Premier now absolves himself from responsibility to the party, and plans to capitalize the confusion to his own personal political advantage.

As plainly almost as language could convey the purpose and the pledge, Mr. Bennett invited the sponsors of the merger idea to give him their support—on the understanding that he will gather about him whatever parliamentary groups he can cajole, bully, or otherwise bring into line, to set up the "national" Government these interests have been asking for, and to enforce a policy of "rigidly" reduced expenditure, increased taxation—and amalgamation of the railways.

That is the eleventh hour strategy of Mr. Bennett, super-patriot, democrat to the hilt, and "amalgamation never" champion. And let nobody make the mistake of thinking he is not confirming powerful allies in his support by this bare-faced treachery. The financial interests, the tariff racketeers, the profiteers of special favor, who have backed him in this campaign of lavish expenditure have not been spending their money for nothing. The speech at Toronto, four days before the election, was Mr. Bennett's promise to pay.

There is only one way and one opportunity for the electors to dish this political merger and thus save themselves from another term of "ruthless" application of "sound" money policy, restriction of trade, unemployment doles—and the loss of the publicly-owned railway system.

Against Mr. Bennett and the associated conspirators in this "national" Government plunder scheme, the Liberal party stands squarely and unalterably opposed. If enough Liberal members are returned on Monday to restore Mr. King to office with a solid and dependable working majority, the conspiracy will be frustrated, trade restrictions will be removed, the National Railways will be preserved as a national utility, the control of currency and credit will be recovered to parliament; and as business responds to the breaking of special-interest control of national policies, employment will increase, money will get circulating again, belts can be loosened, and the people of Canada can return again to the "high standard of living" Mr. Bennett talks about, but which they have not known in the years of his rule.

If there are not enough Liberal members returned to give a working majority to a Government pledged to these ends—Mr. Bennett has disclosed what we have to expect from his hands and those of the plunder-hunters with whom he has made alliance.

The Conservative party has been sold out. It is to be cast aside as a squeezed lemon. It has served Mr. Bennett's turn. He has brought it to discredit and humiliation. In disgust many of its adherents have gone into rebellion under one of his former lieutenants—who, likely enough, Mr. Bennett plans to reconcile once the election is over and take into his chameleon cabinet. The Conservative voter who is tired of being tricked and trifled with can give his support to political stability, rebuke political dishonesty, and clear the decks for a reorganization of his own party "from the ground up" by voting this time for the Liberal candidate in his constituency. For him, as for others, the choice is "King or chaos."

NO RAILWAY PROBLEM SAYS LABOR CHIEF

Get Trade Moving and Railroads Will be All Right Declares Mosher

"There is no railway problem in Canada. Let our statesmen correct the evils of our industrial and economic system and the roads would hum with business and new lines go under construction," said A. R. Mosher, president of the All-Canadian Labor Congress and president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees who arrived in Edmonton Friday in the course of a coast-to-coast tour of railroad centres.

Mr. Mosher accompanied by T. McGregor, general chairman western division of Canadian National Railway Employees will leave here Sunday for Edson then proceed to Prince Rupert and down the coast to Vancouver.

While the membership of the brotherhood which he heads, has increased there are still 75,000 out of work, said Mr. Mosher.

DISTRIBUTION BIG PROBLEM

"And until some of our politicians find a way to distribute our enormous production railway employees will continue to suffer," he continued.

"I am interested in seeing the vast abundance we produce being distributed."

"Amalgamation?" pressed newsmen.

OPPOSE MERGER

"We will continue to attack Sir Edward Beatty and others who propose a railway merger in Canada. Such a move for amalgamation is not in the interest of any one except a few bondholders," he responded.

"There is no railway problem," he continued. "Why single out the roads? When statesmen rectify our crippled distribution system the two roads will be overworked hauling goods to which the people have the rightful ownership."

Distribution Is Problem Of Railways

A. R. MOSHER, president of the All Canadian Labor Congress and of the C.B. R.E., who is an Edmonton visitor, says railroadmen oppose merger and believe if Canada's trade is given a chance railroad problems will be solved.

The refusal of Albania to join in sanctions makes the third leak in the League's projected economic dam against Italy. Other potential leaks were furnished by Hungary and Austria. Financially dominated by Italy, any attitude of hostility toward Italy on the part of Albania could bring quick Italian reprisals.

Although Albania sells cattle, hides, and general foodstuffs to Italy, its supplies would not suffice to fill the produce void caused by a general economic blockade.

HAILE DRIVES ARE UNDERWAY IN ERITREA

Warriors Wage Two Major Offensives Upon Italian Colony

ASMARA, Eritrea, Oct. 11.—Two major Ethiopian attacks directed against towns at extreme opposite ends of this Italian colony were reported underway last night, according to unconfirmed information received at army headquarters here.

One Ethiopian force was advancing up the Setit river valley toward Tessenei, in the far west of Eritrea near the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan border, while a second was heading toward Assab, on the coast of the Red Sea near French Somaliland, the reports said.

REPORT SKIRMISHES

Skirmishes between troops of Ethiopia's Tigre province chieftain, Ras Seyoum and blackshirt troops in this sector were reported in the Marium Sasalu valley, 10 miles northeast of Aduwa.

The Ethiopian retreat headed for this shelter, but met opposition on the way, it was learned. Ethiopian rear guards put up a hard fight at Ambasebnat, where they encountered troops from General Maravigna's blackshirt left wing.

RESIST ITALIANS

An Italian corps ran into stubborn resistance at the little settlement of Gendesta, but was able to win control of all important caravan routes and foot-trails in the area, it was stated here.

General Santini and his men have reached Edagahamus, southeast of Adigrat and more than 9,000 feet above sea-level, it was announced.

M'MULLEN ON MERCY FLIGHT

Racing against time to the aid of a sick man, George Ray, manager of Northern Traders Ltd. post at Fort Good Hope, Pilot Archie McMullen left Fort Simpson at 4:00 p.m. Thursday for Fort Norman in a Canadian Airways Ltd. plane.

The airman was expected to continue his flight from Norman to Fort Good Hope, some 300 miles south of Aklavik, Friday. If good weather prevails McMullen will make the return flight with his sick passenger to Fort Simpson, where a doctor will examine Ray and decide whether or not he should be brought to Edmonton for treatment.

The round-trip flight is 2,300 miles to and from Fort McMurray and is particularly hazardous for pontoon equipped planes at this late season of the year.

Ice has been forming for the past 10 days on northern lakes and rivers.

GOVT. SEIZURE SCHEME ANNOYS PRIVATE FIRMS

Prevented From Taking Action Against Debtor Farmers

That while provincial legislation is constantly being used to prevent private creditors from taking actions against debtor farmers whose debt is years in arrears, the government itself is stepping in and making seizures of grain crops on which recent liens are held for fodder advances is the charge made by financial houses who feel that this action is discriminatory and that it jeopardizes their equity in many cases.

"We are up against this condition all the time," said one mortgage company head today. "The government is ready to make seizures on farmers but the private creditor or mortgage company has to go to the debt adjustment board for a permit. It is practically impossible for us to get anywhere unless we have the borrower's co-operation and make a settlement."

EXEMPTIONS GREAT

Another mortgage company representative complained that the list of exemptions given to farmers against action for debt, which must be allowed before the board will give leave to make a seizure, are so great that it is hard to get anything. This is noticeably the case if the farmer is disposed to make his exemption list just as high as he possibly can. In such cases, there is nothing left for the creditors."

BUT GOVERNMENT COLLECTS

But while private concerns are held back the government has no such restrictions and under authority of a ministerial order published in the last issue of the Alberta Gazette, fieldmen of the municipal affairs department and secretary-treasurers of municipal districts, may effect crop seizures when security for repayment of the fodder advance is in jeopardy.

FODDER RELIEF ACT

The Fodder Relief Act provides that sufficient of the farmer's crop may be sold by private contract or by public auction to satisfy the amount owing to the government.

"The purpose is to enforce seizures in cases where a farmer is known to be financially able to pay back the advance and has neglected to do so," said one government official.

The public accounts for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1934, show that fodder advances in that period amounted to $405,000. Though official figures are not available as to last year's operations, these are believed to exceed $100,000.

In his budget speech in the legislature last March 8, the then provincial treasurer, Hon. J. R. Love, stated that 6,000 fodder loans had been made in 1934.

quested a last audience with Emperor Haile Selassie and Bellaten Gheta Herouy, Ethiopian foreign minister. He was asked to leave Addis Ababa yesterday.

MUCH CONJECTURE

Conjecture was rife regarding the request for an audience with the Emperor. Well-informed observers discounted the interpretation advanced in some quarters that the Italian minister was prepared to discuss some basis for ending hostilities.

Italian plane bombardments in Tigre province, to the north, and around Dessie, to the northeast, have torn down wires linking Addis Ababa with the outposts of Ethiopia, government circles said.

JACKSON DODDS, BANK CHIEF, IS GUEST OF CITY

Bank of Montreal Head Here to Study Northern Alberta Trends

Jackson Dodds, O.B.E., tall, grey-haired general manager of the Bank of Montreal and president of the Canadian Bankers' Association of Montreal, arrived in Edmonton Thursday night but would make no statement to reporters.

The Bank of Montreal general manager was accompanied by Mrs. Dodds.

Following the usual practice of Bank of Montreal officials, Mr. Dodds had dictated a statement to his secretary which was issued to the press from his Macdonald hotel suite while he and Mrs. Dodds were guests at dinner shortly after their arrival here from the west on the Canadian National's "Continental Limited."

BRANCH SURVEY

In his prepared statement, Mr. Jackson Dodds said that he "is making a short visit to Edmonton for the purpose of studying conditions and discussing business problems with the superintendent and branch managers of northern Alberta," who assembled in the city to meet him.

"It is the policy of the Bank of Montreal to make an exhaustive study of conditions and cover the whole situation in their published report of the annual meeting of the shareholders held early in December," he said.

"There are signs of recovery in business conditions, and in due time it will permit increased borrowings from banks for commercial purposes. Meanwhile the banks of Canada, like those in Great Britain and the United States, are seeking temporary employment for surplus funds, and are carrying a larger percentage than usual of short term government bonds.

"In spite of the low return for the time being, they prefer these short term obligations, which are obtainable around par or even at a discount, to the higher yielding long term bonds purchasable only at a premium, which (premium) might be wiped out by a conversion scheme."

KING SELASSIE GOING TO FRONT

N. NICHOLSON DIED BY FOUL MEANS, VERDICT

Walter Bilibroka Faces Preliminary on Charge Of Murder

Walter Bilibroka, 18, of Gunn, was arraigned before Magistrate McCullough of Stony Plain, Friday afternoon at Glenevis, for preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering his former employer, Norman Nicholson, 55, Glenevis farmer, who a coroner's jury found had died by foul means.

At the conclusion of the inquest, which was held Friday forenoon at Glenevis under the direction of Coroner Dr. R. M. Oatway of Stony Plain, the jury returned the following verdict: "We, the jury, find that Norman Nicholson came to his death between the dates of September 8 and 15 by foul means, apparently being struck several times on the head by a blunt instrument; the place on his own farm, in his own house, on S.E. 12-56-4. We have arrived at this verdict from the evidence submitted today."

Jeffrey Waldron, first witness called by James J. Frawley, K.C., acting for the crown, stated he had last seen Nicholson in his store at Glenevis on September 4.

REPORTED MISSING

Andrew Erickson, a neighbor, stated that he had gone to Nicholson's farm on September 8 and again on September 11 and 12, following which he reported to R.C. M. Police that Nicholson was missing.

Constable R. E. Thurston, R.C.M. P., of Rochfort Bridge, told the court that he found the man's body in a roothouse on his farm, the roothouse caved in on top of him. He had discovered evidence of blood on the floor of the house and found a mattress and blanket in the well and a hammer near a tool shed, all blood-stained.

MULTIPLE FRACTURES

Dr. John McGregor, University of Alberta pathologist, testified that Nicholson's head bore multiple fractures, all having been inflicted prior to death, which was caused by cerebral hemorrhage.

Members of the inquest jury were James Reid, foreman, Emil R. Klinger, Louis Gooley, Henry Kaiser, Thomas Price and James Sutherland.

ATHABASCA, Oct. 11.—Athabasca's prospective cabinet minister Hon. C. C. Ross, was welcomed to the district last night at an informal banquet here arranged by the council and town businessmen. He was accompanied by Hon. W. A. Fallow, C. H. Tade, retiring member, and several Colinton businessmen were in attendance.

Following supper Hon. Mr. Fallow and Hon. Mr. Ross spoke briefly, as did Mr. Tade and P. G. Davies, ex-M.P. in the federal house.

The possibilities of gravelling the highway from Athabasca to Clyde thereby opening up the gravel pits north of town, and the development of the McMurray tar sands was informally discussed.

on upon its own responsibility—the Liberal party.

Advices reaching the capital in the past 24 hours are to the effect that earlier estimates that 90 per cent of Canadian National Railway employees will support Liberal candidates next Monday are low and that, in the face of the Bennett threat of amalgamation under private ownership, there will be a 100 per cent vote of National employees for Mr. King and at least an 80 per cent vote of Canadian Pacific employees in the same direction.

RESIGNATIONS DEPOSITED

In anticipation of defeat at the polls next Monday it is asserted here that Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister to Washington and Mr. Bennett's brother-in-law, and Hon. Howard Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner at London, have both deposited their resignations with Mr. Bennett.

ENVOY ALOISI QUITS GENEVA

Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press

GENEVA, Oct. 11—Baron Pompeo Aloisi and six other members of the Italian delegation to the League of Nations left Geneva today at the very moment when the league's sanctions began to take form.

Coal Purchased By Power Plant

September purchases of coal by the city power plant department totalled 5,155 tons bought from 22 coal mines in this district at an average price of $1.51 per ton, according to a report submitted to commissioners by Acting Superintendent Alex Ritchie.

The total price paid for the coal was $7,810.

Output of the plant to date this year was 40,236,900 kilowatt hours as compared to 38,143,500 kilowatt hours for the corresponding period last year, an increase of 2,093,400 kilowatt hours.

SOCIAL CREDIT NOT DECIDED ON CITY ELECTIONS

Social Credit forces have not yet decided whether their party would contest the civic elections with a full slate for the mayoralty and aldermanic and school board positions, S. A. G. Barnes, Social Credit M.L.A., declared Friday when commenting on a news item published Thursday to the effect well-informed party quarters had announced their organization would enter municipal politics, with Mr. Barnes heading the slate as a mayoralty candidate.

"The central council of the party met here last Saturday to discuss this question and decided to table the matter for another two weeks, when a decision will likely be made," Mr. Barnes said.

Asked if he would accept a nomination as a candidate for mayor, he replied he had no announcement to make until the central council had made known its plans.

CHILD KILLER HANGS SELF

PONTIAC, Mich., Oct. 11.—Ferrin Rowland, 36-year-old farmer-woodsman who drowned his two young stepdaughters because he "just wanted to get rid of them," hanged himself with a rope made of pillow cases in the Oakland county jail today. Deputy Sheriff Louis Burt found the body.

Rowland calmly repeated for officers here his account of taking the girls, Katherine Woodin, six, and Virginia, two, to lonely Bloat Lake near here the night of Sept. 17, twisting a wire weighted with a plough point around their necks, and "tipping" them into 25 feet of water, the bodies were recovered Wednesday night.

Farmer Placed Under Oath By Review Board

For the first time since the Farmer-Creditor Board of Review commenced sessions here, an applicant Friday was placed under oath, when making disclosures concerning his assets and liabilities.

The applicant, who farms in the Leduc district, was acquitted of defrauding an insurance company out of approximately $800 at the last sitting of criminal court.

It was charged before the review board Friday by the solicitor for the insurance company that the applicant had made false statements concerning his crop, which was under a third share lease to the company, which held a mortgage on the lands.

It was at the solicitor's request that evidence was taken under oath before the board.

Mr. Justice Ewing and other board members made no comment concerning the charges of the solicitor.

EYEWITNESS TO TAKING ADUWA TELLS DETAILS

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY, ADUWA, Oct. 11—The first eye-witness account of the fall of Aduwa was obtained by Havas last night as Italian generals were holding a council of war in preparation for a drive southward into Tigre province's highest mountain country and through its thorny ravines.

The battle which ended in capture of the "City of Vengeance" was compared to the historic engagement at Thermopylae, narrow pass from Thessaly to Locris, where Leonidas and his 300 Spartans tried to stem the tide of the Persian invasion in 480 B.C.

NARROW PASS

Here a detachment of Ascaris-Eritrean natives incorporated in the Italian offensive—moved forward in the first thrust.

At the head of these troops was a young Italian lieutenant. Lying in ambush behind a sharp cliff was a little band of vanguard Ethiopians. As the Ascaris approached the defence opened fire and the lieutenant fell.

QUICK COMMAND

He was replaced by his adjutant. About 35 feet farther along the pass the adjutant also was shot. Then an Ascari sergeant took command.

The ranks were closed and the fearless natives drove forward into the teeth of the Ethiopian fire. The defending warriors were cut to pieces. The pass seemed clear.

Almost immediately, however, about 1,000 Ethiopians stationed on an elevation overlooking the narrow passage began to sweep the advancing troops with machine gun fire. More than 100 Ascaris fell wounded.

TANKS RESCUE

The sergeant called a halt while the men took cover and first aid was given.

Then a fierce pitched battle began, and the outcome was in doubt until Italian speed tanks came up from the rear and tilted the scales in favor of the offensive. Finally the advance pushed its way through the pass and Aduwa was within reach.

On Oct. 5, under a broiling noonday sun, the Ascaris marched into the city where they found the headquarters of the Italian consul abandoned and all its fittings wrecked.

BRITAIN DETERMINED TO THWART DUCE FASCISTS

FRIENDLY TOWARD PEOPLE BUT NOT BLACKSHIRT AIMS

War Secretary Urges John Bull's Defences Must At Once be Put Into Order.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Lord Halifax, secretary for war, repeated last night in a speech at Sheffield that Britain is still friendly toward the Italian people but determined to thwart the designs of the Fascist government on Ethiopia.

Britain must lose no time in putting her defences in order, he added.

Alfred Duff Cooper, financial secretary of the treasury, also expressed the friendship of Britain for the Italian people.

Of the Italian government he said:

"What the next steps are going to be we cannot say. What sanctions are going to be imposed I do not know.

"But I refuse to believe there is any government, however powerful, that there is any individual, however headstrong and impetuous and blind, who cannot be affected by the fact that in the councils of the world they have been found guilty."

STORMS LASH S.E. ALASKA

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Oct. 11.—Stormy weather struck south-eastern Alaska Thursday after a swift thrust in the coastal area of Bethel, several hundred miles from Ketchikan, where lowlands were flooded and several natives' homes washed away.

In the southeast shipping suffered.

The Bethel storm had subsided, however, and no loss of life was reported. The coast guard cutter Northland, which had started for the village, was advised its services were not required.

The salmon packer Venus was moving toward Ketchikan after striking a rock near Cape Pole. The salvage tug Algie arrived here from Prince Rupert, B.C., bound for Cordova, to aid the Canadian boat Lysekil.

LEAGUE BARS WORLD PRESS

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA, Oct. 11.—The first sanction imposed today was on the press.

With great to-do the delegates of 50 nations gathered at the League secretariat for the first meeting of the sanctions committee.

In a public sitting Augusto de Vasconcelos was elected chairman without opposition. Then at the suggestion of the chairman the committee agreed its meetings should be generally private. De Vasconcelos immediately announced the public sitting closed and in a clatter of comment that sounded like the Tower of Babel newspapermen from all over the world left the room.

The public sitting lasted under 10 minutes.

ASTRONOMY NOT DRY SUBJECT IN VARSITY COURSE

Dr. R. L. Rutherford of the Geology department of the University, kept a large audience in laughter at the first meeting for this season of the Royal Astronomical Society in the Arts building Thursday evening.

Dr. Rutherford chose as the nominal subject for his address "The Structure of the Earth," and went into detail on the theories concerning the original formation of the earth, but for many of those present the kernel of the evening was the witty remarks on politics and economics with which the address was interspersed.

Referring to a collection of rocks which he drew from his pocket, he stated "The radio has been informing us for some time now that we need protection."

"At the core of the earth," he stated, "all minerals are evenly distributed, even gold, and this would probably be considered an ideal social credit state."

Previous to the lecture the telescope was set up on the campus before the Arts building, and members of the society and of astronomy classes at the University were permitted to take a peak at Saturn and the moon, but the cloudiness of the evening prevented the venture being a great success.

Britain Kills Italian Broadcast To America

GENEVA, Oct. 11.—The United Kingdom post office refused last night to relay a broadcast speech of Baron Pompeo Aloisi, chief Italian delegate to the League of Nations, from Geneva via a British wireless station to North America.

In some quarters the British move was interpreted as a start in applying sanctions against Italy.

In his speech, Aloisi asserted he wishes merely to explain Italy's case in the Ethiopian situation, and desired to give the people of North America a realistic conception of Premier Mussolini's East African campaign.

The broadcast was about to begin when a telephone message came from Britain with the information the United Kingdom post office had refused to handle any broadcast by Aloisi or any other Italian spokesman. The broadcast was abandoned.

The broadcast was to have taken the form of a chatty dialogue between Aloisi and Edgar Mowrer, United States newspaperman and author. Mowrer and the baron had completed their rehearsal and the Italian statesman was waiting at the microphone when the telephone message came through from England.

"It was too late to arrange for another station," Mowrer told the Associated Press, "so we had to abandon the whole thing."

TEXTILE MEN TARGETS FOR H. H. STEVENS

Must Mend Their Ways if Reconstructionists Obtain Power

BEAMSVILLE, Ont., Oct. 11.—Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction party leader, served notice last night on Canadian textile companies which used discriminatory methods as between Canadian merchants they had better mend their ways, if his party was returned to power.

Mr. Stevens declared the Price Spreads Commission had discovered "wages paid were not commensurate with protection given the cotton textile industry."

WORKER BENEFITS

"I propose to see the benefits of the tariff are passed on to the worker or the protection reduced," he said.

"The great textile companies" had on occasion used their power to discriminate against merchants by refusing to sell to them, or by delaying sales.

"That condition ought not to exist and it does," he said.

On the agricultural implement manufacturing companies Mr. Stevens served notice they must absorb more of their heavy overhead instead of handing it on to the farmer or face the possibility of lowered duties.

This, he said, would bring in some competition from abroad.

Referring again to the alleged statement of Prime Minister Bennett that he, Mr. Stevens, was a traitor, the Reconstruction party leader said the only reason for that charge was "because I had a mind of my own."

GROUP RE-ORGANIZES

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Oct. 11—The Strachan Social Credit Group re-organized for the winter, with president, Mrs. G. B. Barkham; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. C. Poulson; executive, W. Graham and D. MacDonald.

All Right Mae West I'll Be Up, Declares Bennett

BRANTFORD, Ont., Oct. 11.—To a persistent woman heckler who said she was on relief, Prime Minister Bennett suggested at his meeting here Thursday that she stand up so she could be seen. The woman obliged.

"I cannot believe such a just-looking, well-dressed, well-fed woman can be on relief," remarked Mr. Bennett.

"Come up and see me some time," invited the woman heckler.

MONETARY REFORM BLOCKED

The whole question of monetary reform, and of social reform as well, hinges on the ownership of the Central Bank and the control of money and credit. If that institution is to be owned and operated by private parties for their own profit there is no use talking about any material change being made in the monetary system.

It was to block the way to any such change that the Bank was made a privately-owned institution, administered on the lines laid down by the directors of International Finance. Monetary reform is a dead issue in Canada until the power to regulate and control the issue of currency, and therefore the expansion or restriction of credit, is returned to the Government of the country; and that can now only be done by nationalising the privately-owned Central Bank.

WHY DIDN'T HE DO IT?

For a man who has been so often, so persistently and so disastrously wrong, it is refreshing to observe that Mr. Bennett is right for once, if it is only on the platform. The voluntary retirement of wage and salary earners at a given age on pension is the one practicable way to ease the scramble for employment, in which the aged workers have little and steadily lessening chance to find employment.

Had the Premier applied that policy three years ago, and made the pensions sufficient for a decent living, there would not be 1,154,000 people on direct relief in Canada today, the majority of them young and able-bodied.

As it is, he has said nothing about increasing pensions, but only about reducing the pension age. That omission kills the merit of his proposal even as a promise—supposing that his present crop of promises could have any validity after what happened to those of 1930.

BUTTER

Farmers were told they might get 50 cents a pound for their butter if they would only return Mr. Bennett to power five years ago. They have been selling it for 15 cents a pound in the intervening years. Now the Government is paying them a bonus from the Dominion treasury to stop sending their cream to butter factories and send it to cheese factories instead.

Since our cheese market in Great Britain has been lost to other countries, what the Premier would do next year if there happened to be a cheese surplus of course he doesn't know and is not worrying about. He has plenty of troubles, butter troubles among them, on hand at present, without "anticipating the ultimate greatness of the country" as a producer of cheese surplusses.

Under the strategic direction of Hon. H. H. Stevens, the butter policy of the Government has been strongly suggestive of the slippery nature of that commodity. Having barred Australian butter without raising the price of the home product, the Premier is now bribing the farmers to curtail their output of butter and make more cheese that he doesn't know what to do with. And he wants to add a rider that anybody accepting the money ought to vote for his candidates—and five years more of underconsumption.

THE RACKET

One local candidate who wants to continue the national policies of the last five years for another five, undertakes to explain the enormous spread between prices in Canada and the United States as being due to factors entirely separate from the tariff. He says, mass production, giving lower manufacturing and selling costs, coupled with a tremendous domestic market and lower freight rates, account for the United States consumer being able to buy cheaper than the Canadian consumer.

The only thing the matter with the explanation is that it does not explain. Mass production was going strong in the United States in the late twenties, the domestic market was relatively as large, and Canadian railways stoutly maintain that their rates are as low or lower than those in the United States. That disposes of the theory that these factors explain the increased spread since 1930.

The present Canadian tariff is a "racket." Neither the industrial employee nor the consumer gets any benefit from the hoist that was made in the schedules by Mr. Bennett and Mr Stevens. And the manufacturer who can see through theories and discover the facts of the last five years knows it has not done him any good either.

ONE MILLION IS ENOUGH

Bulk figures show only too plainly what five years of blasting have done to Canada's trade abroad, as they show what the same policy has done to private citizens of the Dominion in work, wages and property values. Hence Premier Bennett has to resort to decimal fractions and per centage calculations of loss to make out a case in defence.

Thus, he has been telling audiences that Canada has lost less of its export trade in the last five years than most of the leading nations. This of course is only to say that his contemporaries have been even more successful in their trade-blocking activities than he has been.

Perhaps bankrupt Canadian farmers and idle factory-workers should rejoice in the knowledge that worse has befallen their fellows in some other countries, but any consolation derivable from this tragic comparison is unfortunately not negotiable. One cannot eat per centage records of disaster, nor pay his bills with the money people in other countries did not get.

The world has been tariff-mad; nobody doubts that. Which of the nations has been maddest, or has operated the machinery of trade-prevention with the most disastrous consequences to itself, is a matter of casual concern only. The important point for us is that Canada's export trade has been cut in two; largely because Mr. Bennett refused to allow payment for exports in the only things that customers abroad could offer in exchange for them.

Knowing that other governments have gone farther in the exclusion mania, and that their subjects fared worse, neither brings compensation nor arouses envy. Canadians know they have suffered "plenty." Had the Premier been any more successful in his blocking operations there might be two millions of them on relief instead of one million.

Mr. Bennett's promises of 1935 are worth exactly as much as his promises of 1930.

"I will end unemployment"; 140,000 unemployed in Canada in the fall of 1930; 1,154,000 Canadians on direct relief in the fall of 1935.

A vote for a grouped parliament is a vote to continue confusion, inaction, stagnation, unemployment, doles and relief camps. Haven't we had enough of these?

Western voters will not be any nearer to $25 a month dividends by sending Social Credit candidates to parliament. They may get five years more of neither cash nor credit if they dissipate their anti-Bennett votes over too many protest candidates.

Mr. Bennett is now expressing platform hopes that Mr. King will not secure a majority in the new parliament. Unlike the promises which have emanated from the same source, there is no doubt the hope is sincere. Nobody, of course, is wasting much time arguing that Mr. Bennett will not get a majority. That is too obvious to need argument.

Figures published by the Bureau of Statistics show there were 1,154,000 people on direct relief in Canada at the first of August, 1935, as against 1,068,107 in 1934, 972,166 in 1933, and 732,300 in 1932. The figures have been going steadily upward year after year, as savings accounts were used up and more and more families were forced across the borderline from self-support to dependence.

Relief costs in Edmonton, as over the Dominion, show that the burden on the taxpayer is becoming heavier, with no sign of the much longed-for change of direction. Direct relief in Edmonton for the first eight months of this year cost $749,457, against $732,925 for the corresponding period last year. Isn't it time somebody came along and told us again that the depression is all over, or just about over?

The strength of reaction is that those who are fearful of change and those who profit by continuing the existing order of things stand together. The weakness of reform is that its advocates break into groups, each trying to promote its own particular idea—and thereby defeat each other. Therein lies the one danger that the forces of reaction may gain control of the new parliament we are to elect next Monday.

A. R. B. Hearn, of the staff of the Imperial Bank, has been transferred to Vancouver.

Fall plowing is going ahead briskly. Many farmers prefer to plow as long as the weather permits and do their threshing after the ground freezes up. This season the crop on fall plowing did very much the best and there is getting to be a general feeling that on an average it pays to plow in the fall.

The Winnipeg Tribune's account of the recent field trials held at St. Boniface, Man., has the following: "Mr. Bruce of Calgary has probably the finest kennel in America of black and tan setters. The best individual specimen of that breed is owned as far northwest as Edmonton by Mr. John Brown. Experts of the breed claim this distinction for his Gordon setter Dash." Mr. Brown's well-known pet is certainly a very handsome animal.

The South Edmonton exhibition was held on Monday last and was well attended. Exhibitors numbered 111 and exhibits 712.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Winnipeg: More wheat came into Winnipeg yesterday than into Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago combined, the first time this has occurred. The receipts were nearly 1000 cars.

London: A syndicate has been formed here to handle Canadian Pacific lands. It is stated to have bought 900,000 acres near Edmonton.

Ottawa: Sir William Mulock is retiring from the cabinet and from political life. It is probable he will accept the vacancy on the superior court bench of Ontario.

Ottawa.—Reports from Major Moodie show that Chesterfield inlet and Baker lake, opening from Hudson Bay, are navigable for fair sized steamers for about 100 miles. It is the intention of the Comptroller of the R.N.W.M.P. to make use of this stretch of water to establish communication between Hudson Bay and Edmonton by way of Great Slave lake and the Athabasca river. The attempt will probably be made next summer.

Dr. Wade went to Calgary today.

J. Dunlop left for Calgary this morning.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

New York.—Sterling was down today to $4.67, and a three-hour meeting was held between Wall Street bankers and Sir Edward Holden, member of the Anglo-French financial commission, to devise means of bolstering up the value of the pound.

A new block for the accommodation of women patients has been opened at the mental hospital at Ponoka.

Washington.—President Wilson approved a new note to Great Britain, protesting against interference with neutral shipping.

D. R. Mulligan, superintendent of hotels for the G.T.P., left last night for the coast, and will probably look over sites for the proposed hotel at Jasper.

Chicago.—Saloons in this city were closed on Sunday, for the first time in 44 years.

Paris.—Three-quarters of the city of Belgrade was destroyed by shells before the Serbian forces gave up the defence.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: C. L. Y. asks: "What food value, as compared with olive oil, does sesame oil have?"

ANSWER—The food value of sesame oil is similar to the food value of olive oil. Use whichever you prefer, according to your own taste. Corn oil and cottonseed oil are also wholesome.

Horoscope

By MARY BLAKE

On October 12 your sense of perception is likely to be unusually keen and may keep you from becoming involved in an embarrassing situation. It might be wise to plan your own form of amusement. If you depend on someone else doing it for you disappointment is liable to result, unless definite provisions have been already made for your entertainment. Because this is Columbus Day, do not feel you will be immune from dangers should a reckless spirit of adventure tempt foolhardy exploration into things or places common sense warns against. Married and engaged couples and those within whom love has recently been awakened, will be wise to remember jealousy springs from the seed of suspicion planted, usually, by an apprehensive imagination.

If a woman and October 12 is your birthday, curiosity and a desire to investigate new things or theories, are probably your outstanding characteristics. You should try not to harbor resentment, if you wish contentment. Do not permit conditions or environment to affect you, for both may be only temporary. Through marriage much joy is likely to be obtained.

The child born on October 12 may, when it reaches its teens, attract attention by its self-possession, and ability to converse intelligently.

If a man and October 12 is your natal day, you should be a good judge of human nature.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

I don't want to throw any monkey wrenches into the political machinery so close to the election, but I would like to see some of our Liberal friends give Mr. Bennett the credit where credit is due him.

J. S. Cowper

Trade has decreased under his policies; we have the statistics of the Department of Trade and Commerce to prove that. Taxes have risen; we have daily evidence of that in our purchases of food and clothing. Unemployment has increased; we have 1,154,698 people on relief at the present time. One candidate has gone so far as to rent a store window on Jasper avenue and place in it merchandise of all kinds from toothpaste to Lifebuoy soap, razor blades to mayonnaise dressing, radio tubes to canned peaches, showing that these cost from 25 per cent to 100 per cent more in Canada than in United States, owing to the Bennett tariffs.

One or two items as a matter of fact cost more than 100 per cent additional in Canada—notably Eddy matches, which cost 21 cents for six large boxes in United States and 50 cents for the same quantity in Canada.

But how about giving the public the other side of the picture, and telling about those industries that have benefitted under Mr. Bennett?

Canada has made a far better show at Washington under Conservative rule, but that may have been due to the circumstance that brother-in-law Bill Herridge was made Minister to Washington. The more than $100,000 a year spent on maintaining the Canadian establishment there, might have been reduced if some person unrelated by marriage to the Premier had been chosen for the job. That may not be a fair instance to quote.

Take the R.C.M.P. No business in Canada has shown more growth than the police business under Mr. Bennett. New and larger buildings and barracks are being erected all over Canada to cope with the great increase the police business has experienced since 1930. So many additions have been made to it that the R.C.M.P. is considering a change of name. It may drop the word "Mounted." The unmounted men now outnumber the mounted men by over 90 per cent.

The increase in the police business of the Dominion has been recognized in the salary lists of the higher officials. The former Commissioner used to get $6540 a year salary, plus a house and ration allowance of $1320.

The present Commissioner receives from Mr. Bennett a total of $14,276 a year, made up as follows: salary $12,000; house allowance $1500; ration allowance $876.

General McNaughton, late chief of the Military staff, has shared in the prosperous days that Mr. Bennett's regime has brought to the police and militia forces of Canada. He used to get $8000 a year. Mr. Bennett increased his salary to $10,000 and later promoted him to the Research Council at $15,000 a year, plus $15 a day in addition to railway fares, when travelling. Col. W. A. Steele, who got $4460 in the Department of National Defence, was made radio commissioner at $8000 a year.

Those mothers who a couple of decades back were singing "I did not raise my boy to be a soldier," may have been blocking the path to prosperity for their budding young pacifists.

The current issue of "Canadian Boating"—whose owner and late editor is the same Mr. Hugh C. Maclean who wrote the life of Richard B. Bennett—has a letter from a reader drawing attention to the era of prosperity that has dawned on the crew of the 60 foot launch Preventor, of the R.C.M.P.

Quoting from Hansard of June 12 of this year, the writer says that the little craft carries the following crew, whose names I will not cumber the record with: Skipper-lieut., $5.90 a day; skipper, $5 a day; chief petty officer, $3.20 a day; chief engineer, $5.40 a day; warrant engineer, $4.25 a day; petty officer, $2.50 a day; chief engine room artificer, 2nd class, $3.60 a day; engine room artificer, 2nd class, $2.75 a day; leading telegraphist, $2.25 a day; telegraphist, $2 a day; two enginemen at $2.45 a day; one engineman, $2.30 a day; one engineman $2.25 a day; four seamen $1.95 a day each; two ordinary seamen $1.25 a day each; cook-steward $2.70 a day; ship's cook, $2.70 a day. Board is included in all of the above.

If the Preventor sinks some day with all hands the reason therefor will be quite clear. Just in case you may think there has been an error in the figure printed, and that the Preventor is a cruiser, I will write the description. She is a sixty-foot launch.

"Reader," whoever he is—he is probably an anguished Liberal—misses the point of the above information. Instead of seeing this crew of 24 for the little boat an evidence of prosperity in the most prosperous industry of the Bennett regime, he makes invidious comparisons with the crews of 10 men, headed by a lieutenant of the R.N.V.R. at $3 a day, who used to man the 80-foot British submarine chasers in war-time, handling a 12 pounder gun, a machine gun, depth charges and wireless and hydrophone equipment.

He, poor spirit, confuses two wholly unrelated things. The crew of ten on the 80-foot sub-chaser were engaged in fighting German warships; the crew of 24 on the 60-foot Preventor are used in the Gulf to prevent anyone from landing in Canada rayon goods from Britain that have not paid the required 101½ per cent duty, or silks, liquor, tobacco or other things whose price has been boosted by high tariffs to a point where smuggling becomes profitable.

The men on the sub-chasers were fighting for the life of the nation. Men engaged in preventive work against smugglers are engaged in the noblest of all work—maintaining high prices and profits for the beneficiaries of the Bennett high tariff.

It is quite surprising that Canadian bank debits should be above the 1926 level. This can be explained neither on a basis of price level nor on volume of business. It may be indicative of the greater relative volume of activity in the Canadian security markets.—Monthly Letter of the Royal Bank of Canada.

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1785 the first issue appeared of the Royal Gazette and the New Brunswick Advertiser, published by Christopher Sower, a Loyalist from Philadelphia, who had been appointed postmaster for the province of New Brunswick and "printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty." On December 18, 1785, William Lewis and John Ryan published The Royal St. John's Gazette and Nova Scotia Intelligencer. Lewis was a pre-Loyalist, for he had arrived in 1783. He was one of the first freemen of Saint John when it was incorporated in 1785. Ryan had been an apprentice in New York of John Howe, the father of Hon. Joseph Howe, and had accompanied his master to Halifax, where he decided to set up for himself and chose Parr Town as his field.

After Sower had been named king's printer, Lewis and Ryan changed the name of their paper to the St. John Gazette and General Advertiser, but on Sower's death in 1799 Ryan was appointed king's printer and the name of the paper was changed to The Royal Gazette and New Brunswick Advertiser. In May, 1790, Sower moved to French Village, King's county and in the cellar of his log house established a printing office, publishing The Royal Gazette, the journals of the House of Assembly and the acts of the New Brunswick legislature. He was first printer to occupy a seat in the legislature, being elected to the assembly in 1795. His son, Brook Watson, was in business as a printer at Baltimore and lives in the history of the craft as the man who first printed the Bible in diamond type, thereby astounding printers in England.

Mr. Bennetts "Wild Dreams"

Outside the wild west movie pictures one can scarcely have encountered such a plot as that which Prime Minister Bennett sprang on a British Columbia audience and radio listeners across Canada when he told of the plot of the unemployed who started to trek across Canada—they were going to reach Ottawa, seize Prime Minister Bennett as a hostage and set up a Communist government in Canada. Just like that.

Mr. Bennett foiled this plot. He ordered that the trekkers be opposed, be not allowed to reach Ottawa. Premier Hepburn of Ontario, the premiers of other provinces, little knowing what was at stake, joined in frustrating the progress of the trekkers. Only a few reached Ottawa.

What kind of a yarn is this for the Prime Minister of Canada to offer the people of this country? If that bedraggled procession of unemployed had reached Ottawa how could they have seized the Prime Minister as a hostage? If they had succeeded in snatching him how could this have aided them in setting up a Communist government? Is he the only man in Ottawa? What about that large policeman who parades Sparks street? What about the gentleman usher of the black rod and the formidable person who wields the formidable mace? Would they have submitted to the setting up of a Communist government?

The story is so fantastic that one may expect to see denials that Mr. Bennett ever spoke it. But he did and no doubt it gave the actor in him a thrill to tell it. The story will read well in Moscow and all across Russia—how the Communists were barely foiled in their design to seize the Canadian Prime Minister and set up a Soviet government in Canada. Mr. Stalin will, doubtless, be told that the plan failed this time by a narrow squeak, but may be put over any day now.—From the Toronto Star.

WORLD NEEDS LIBERALISM

Editor Bulletin: When Mr. Aberhart formed his Social Credit political party and appealed to the people for support, he asked for a strong majority over all parties so that he would not be hampered in carrying out his plans. He asked for 55 seats. He got 56. Everyone agrees that it is well that the result of the election was so decisive. If Social Credit is to be tried it should be given every opportunity to succeed.

We have another election now. Of all the parties in the federal field only one has a chance to win a majority ovr all others. That one is the Liberal party. They have a policy which they believe will abolish "poverty in the midst of plenty" from Canada. They are asking the people to give them a chance to prove it! Mr. King has asked for a majority large enough so that Liberal legislation would not be held up by the veto of hte Senate. Even a Conservative Senate will not defy the will of the people if it is expressed in unmistakable language.

Why not give the Liberal party the same chance that we have given Mr. Aberhart? What good could be accomplished by electing minority groups to hold the balance of power? Such a result of the election could only prevent the formation of any strong government or the carrying out of any definite or consistent policies. A parliament composed of four or five parties, none of which being strong enough to command a majority over all, would be made to order for the big financial interests, whose motto is "Divide and rule."

Mr. Bennett says that the Liberals are offering a nineteenth century remedy. It is true Liberalism lifted the world out of the dark depression of 100 years ago and brought about that great period of enlightened progress that is known as the Victorian Age. The world needs a return of the ideals and spirit of true Liberalism now. Canada can lead the way.

Editor Bulletin: While some people are trying to cloud the issues of the forthcoming election with appeals to patriotism, religion, or any other mode to catch the popular vote, perhaps, in view of the fact that all but the few are bent on "Monetary Reform," it would be as well to quote a few remarks from the pen of John Ruskin, so as to keep the one great issue clear. Prime Minister Preaching The Sanctity Of Poverty

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

In his Western speeches the Prime Minsiter said that Canadian banks have more money now than ever before in their history; but cannot lend it out because no borrowers are in sight who can pay back what they borrow.

This is another way of saying that the favorable balance of trade which the Prime Minister alleges he created is a myth and only exists in his dreams. A producer who borrows money under existing conditions gets the right to issue cheques in payment for goods and services in a protected market; that is to say, each expendiure he makes is divided into twenty-four cents for market protection and seventy-six cents for goods and services on the basis of world values. He has lost twenty-four per cent of his loan at the time of making it; because, when he comes to pay back, he has to pay an amount realized by the sale of his produce in world market, on the basis of world values, without any regard to the domestic value of his produce. You will see there is no possibility of the producer realizing cost of production, because he cannot add the twenty-four per cent trade protection and the interest on his loan to the sale price of his product. Therefore the producer exists in a condition of managed poverty.

The Prime Minister says that under his imaginary balance of trade, the improvement will reach a stage where the producer can pay back. In this he is mistaken. The initial loss at the time of the loan, when added to the interest on the loan, is greater than any profit the producer ever can make.

A producer who had his own money and did not borrow, will also reach the end of his money by slower stages, because when he spends a dollar at home he pays the twenty-four per cent trade protection, and must sell in world markets. He also is headed for managed poverty.

This blows up the ideal which the Prime Minister preaches of a time when every producer will be able to realize enough to pay his debts and the banks will feel safe in lending him money.

It is the ideal of the creditor class, determined to keep an army of debtors in a condition of managed poverty, earning enough to pay current debts, so as to be able to contract new debts, but never to stay out of debt.

On national finance the Prime Minister preaches a parallel doctrine. Our bonded indebtedness is too great for a population of eleven million people, but we must keep on paying to uphold the national honor, while trying to get such reductions in interest as may be payable out of all which can be collected from the taxpayer without involving further borrowing to pay interest.

The only sacred things are the dollars and the contracts to pay dollars. Human lives are only pawns in the trade protection and interest collection game. The individual outlook is to be one of managed hopelessness; lighted only by the cold light of national honor abroad, shedding a dim and obscuring light on the poverty and lack of opportunity at home.

There is no chance to re-elect the Conservative party on these preachings. One only has to feel in his own pockets for the answer. Five years has been more than plenty.

matter that is eating the soul of Canada, and one cannot add more to what Ruskin quotes:

"No blister draws sharper than does the interest. Of all industries, none is comparable to that of interest. It works day and night, in fair weather and in foul. It has no sound in its footsteps, but it travels fast. It gnaws at a man's substance (and a nation's) with invisible teeth. It binds industry wtih its film, as a fly is bound in a spider's web. Debts roll a man over and over, binding him hand and foot, and letting him hang upon a fatal mesh until the long-legged interests devour him. There is but one thing like it, and that is the Canada thistle, which swarms with new plants every time you break its roots, whose blossoms are prolific, and every flower the father of a million seeds. Every leaf is an awl, every branch is a spear, and every plant like a platoon of bayonets, and a field of them like an armed host. The whole plant is a torment and a vegetable curse. And yet, a man had better make his bed of Canada thistles than to be at ease upon interest."

McLEOD FRIEND OF VETERAN

Editor Bulletin: On reading one of our local papers I was surprised to see some rather unjust criticism about Lieut.-Col. G. B. McLeod.

What I really took exception to is the statement that G.B. is making a political issue of returned men's affairs, when in reality his kindness to we old soldiers makes him the victim of such talk. Being closely associated with the many soldier organizations, I claim to know a little of the good that Col. McLeod has done during the past five years.

Let me go back to the formation of the Ex-Service Men's Contact Committee, formed by Comrade Sidney Parsons: Who was their first permanent chairman? George B. McLeod. Why? Because the only time an ex-officer can expect a position of respect from members of the rank and file is when he earns it, and also because he didn't belong to a political party that would sooner see soldier organizations split wide open. Col. Bowen states that returned soldier organizations should not enter politics—but, if the returned men had organized politically when the war finished, they would have been a source to be reckoned with today and there would not be so many of them walking the streets homeless and hungry.

Comrades, our opportunities are few—get behind the little Colonel—send him east with the first, real ration-party—Jimy McKinnon can drive the wagon.

MONEY REFORM

Editor Bulletin: I notice some people are inclined to sneer at the mere thought of the Canadian government printing its own currecy for circulation in Canada only.

These people must have very small minds and must lack vision. They entirely forget that the value of the natural resources of Canada run into many billions of dollars. They also forget that Canada, including its natural resources, belongs to the Canadians; that is, the people living in Canada. It certainly does not belong to the Hottentots or to the Patagonians. Therefore the people of Canada can issue their own national currency, through their government, to any amout up to the value of their national resources. All sane and sensible persons will agree to this.

This is the sum and substance of the Canadian plan, the Liberal party will ride safely at anchor, in Ottawa, for all time to come. When their term of office expires they would be returned to power unanimously by the whole of Canada, from coast to coast. The adoption and operation of the Canadian plan means the improvement of Canada and the benefit of all Canadians. This has nothing whatever to do with foreign exchange; that would be dealt with in the usual way.

As regards pensions: The Canadian government would pay $100 per month to every man over 60 years of age, who could show proof that he needed it; the government would also pay to every woman over 50 years of age the same amount under the same conditions. The only restriction would be that those wishing to receive this pension should have resided in Canada for at least ten years. Not a cent for all these pensions would come out of the taxpayers' pockets.

Canadian Housewives Get Amazing Chart Of Comparative Prices

Where does the housekeeping money go? It isn't only the bride with her early problems of budgeting who worries and exclaims when she gets down to her last dollar. This big business of budgeting never loses its importance as probably the most serious problem in the housekeeping regime. There are daily accounts, and weekly accounts, with so much for this, more for that, and the extras that crop up all the time.

Mrs. Charles H. Thorburn, O.B.E., of Toronto, has made an investigation of how far a ten dollar bill will go in Canada as compared to the same amount of money in the United States, and discovers that living costs more here, for the span between the cost of necessities in Canada and the United States, necessities which are small enough items on the every day accounts, but which run in to large amounts when added up is certainly worth consideration.

MRS. CHAS. H. THORBURN

Objection has been taken to Mrs. Thorburn's statement that living in Canada costs 25% more than in the United States, but she offers proof that in a few purchases of household articles the difference is over 50% higher in Canada.

It's a day's shopping tour, and Mrs. Thorburn finds that in Buffalo she can buy:

Professional Women Are Urged To Vote

One hundred per cent representation at the ballot box on October 14—this is the objective set out by Miss Mary C. Mount of Hamilton, president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, in an appeal to club members throughout the dominion on the eve of the federal election.

"Is it possible," challenges Miss Mount, "that women do not care whether they have a say in forming the laws which they and their children will ultimately have to obey? Have we thought things through, and are we ready to do our duty on October 14? We are longing to serve our country, and nothing to prevent us from making our influence felt from the Atlantic to the Pacific—our medium the ballot box. The women of Canada have had the franchise since 1917, and still there is one lone woman in the house of commons—something to ponder. We are sometimes deeply puzzled as to the best course to follow; nevertheless the path of duty remains. Wouldn't it be a wonderful record if the business and professional women could report 100 per cent voters?"

In urging the women of the business world to awaken to their responsibility, the Federation president advises them to use their franchise "wisely, intelligently and effectively" on October 14. Several of the clubs in the Federation make the use of the franchise a requisite for membership, she points out, and suggests that perhaps it would be an excellent idea to ask all the groups to cover this in their constitution.

Convinced of the necessity of being an informed and enlightened body of women, a five-point program of study was suggested at the convention in Calgary this summer, covering unemployment insurance and deferred annuities. In addition to this, branches of the Federation in all the larger centres of Canada, sponsor study groups in economics.

Mother-In-Law Can Easily Spoil Home

DEAR MISS DIX.—I'm engaged to be married to the finest girl in the world. We would have been married long ago except that her mother is determined to live with us and I am determined to have no in-laws in the house.

I've explained to the mother that I think that every young husband and wife should go off to themselves when they marry, and that I want my home and my wife for myself. I have also told her that I will provide amply for her, either by setting her up in a little apartment or at a hotel or boarding house near enough to us for her to visit her daughter every day, but she is not satisfied with this arrangement. Says that she has been with her daughter every day since she was born and that she cannot live without seeing her every hour. As matters are now, the daughter has to work hard to support her mother while I am able to support her in luxury. Is not the mother selfish in being willing to keep her daughter slaving so that she may gratify her desire to be always with her? The mother is the most tiresome bore on earth and I feel that I cannot stand a lifetime of her society, even for the sake of the girl I love.

A. B. C.

Dorothy Dix

Answer: You are quite right in the position you take in wanting to establish your own home free of any cumbering in-laws, and the fact that the girl's mother is determined to thrust herself upon you when she knows herself unwanted, shows what a trouble-maker she would be.

My advise is, that if you have to take the mother in order to get the girl, to let the girl go. She is too heavily handicapped. Besides, she must lack character and spirit to be so completely under her mother's thumb as to give up the man she loves and the opportunities of such a marriage as she is not likely to find again, rather than cross mamma. The man who marries a girl with a mother complex always runs a bad second to mother. Mother's pleasure and convenience are always considered before his. Mother's opinion are her guide and he lives to the tune of "Mother said we should do this," "Mother thinks we should not do that." Mother can be the deadliest rival that any husband can have and the one of whom he is most jealous.

Every one knows that the young couple who go off to themselves when they get married have 100 per cent. better chance to make a success of marriage than those who take a mother-in-law along as excess baggage. There is bound to be friction between every bride and groom when they are settling down to domesticity and adjusting themselves to each other, and it is then that their safety depends upon being alone with no third party refereeing their fights and telling Mary not to give in to John or urging John not to let Mary henpeck him.

Once a woman said to me that in the 15 years that she had been married she and her husband had never eaten a meal alone once together or taken a ride without mother in the back seat or gone to a movie without mother accompanying them, and that she knew that the greatest treat that her husband could possibly have would be to spend a week with her alone.

Now in this particular case the mother was a rich woman able to have maintained her own home or to have travelled or to have gone off to winter or summer resorts, but she never budged a yard away from her daughter if she could help it. She went to live with her when she got married as a matter of course, because she could not bear to be parted from her even by the width of a street, and she never left her even for a visit as she had no interest outside of the daughter and it never occurred to her that she was taking her happiness at the expense of her daughter's.

Often, of course, it is impossible for a mother to live anywhere else except in her children's home, but even then she should do all she can to ameliorate the situation by not being perpetually under foot, by staying much in her own room, by not always insisting on going out with the husband and wife, and by realizing that every husband and wife have things they want to talk over in private.

The mother who is financially able to maintain her own home should never never go to live with her children. She should give them their chance at happiness and remember that when she married the last thing that she wanted on earth as a bridal present was a mother-in-law.
inlaw.

What New York Is Wearing

By Helen Williams

3135

Today's pattern of blouse and skirt is a perfect choice for first fall wardrobe.

The blouse of royal-blue and silver formal looking metal crepe makes a stunning effect against the navy blue wool-like silk skirt. And incidentally "blue" is very fashionable this fall.

Lustrous satin crepe blouse with the skirt of lightweight woolen is also smart for this simple to sew outfit.

Style No. 3135 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38 and 40-inches bust. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39-inch material for the blouse with 2⅛ yards of 35-inch material for the skirt.

Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Good Taste

By Francine Markel

There never was a time when so much has been said about table setting and serving. And because dinner happens to be one of the few occasions of the day when the entire family meets together, family service is the most important type of table service. And the woman who must prepare the meal and see that it is served correctly can do it comfortably by observing the following suggestions:

Place the platter for the main course directly in front of the person doing the serving, the plates to the left, where they may be easily reached, and, if a vegetable is served, this dish is placed at the right. The meat and vegetable is served on the plate and passed to the right and on around the table until it reaches the person to the left of the one serving. The second vegetable should be served by some other person at the table. The accompaniments to the dinner are placed on the table and the person near whom they are placed serves himself and then passes the dish to his right, each person serving himself as the dish reaches him. If salad is a separate course, the salad plate should be placed on the table before the family is seated.

The dessert and beverages are served after the main course.

Protect Hair From Water With Chamois

By GLADYS GLAD

According to Greek mythology, Aphrodite, the well-known goddess of beauty, didn't originate in the humble way that we humans do. Aphrodite, it seems, sprang from the foam of the sea one day. Her exquisite beauty charmed everyone. And, apparently, the briny ocean water had no detrimental effects whatsoever upon the loveliness of her tresses. However, sticky ocean water certainly does affect the locks of us modern mermaids. No matter how tight a bathing cap fits, the hair always seems to get wet when a gal swims around in the water for any length of time.

Many of our well-known concert, cinema and radio stars are ardent lovers of ocean bathing. Every day that they possibly have the time, they go to a beach and spend the afternoon swimming about in the briny. And yet, when they step upon the stage or before the microphone the same evening, their hair looks just as flawlessly lovely as though they had just stepped out of a beauty shop. You'd never believe that they had been anywhere near a beach.

LEILA HYAMS

HOW TO KEEP HAIR DRY

Th lass who likes her swimming, yet dislikes to have her hair soaked or her waves ruined by ocean water, can very simply prevent this. Prior to donning her bathing cap in preparation for that first plunge into the water, she should brush her hair upward from the hair line all around her head, and pin it securely on the top of her head. Then she should take a strip of ordinary chamois, about three inches wide, and bind it about her head so that it entirely covers the hair line. After this, she should don a snug bathing cap and put it on so that it entirely covers the chamois band.

Try this method, you girls who dislike getting water in your ears or getting your hair wet when you go swimming, and remember it next summer. There are chamois strips and rubber stockinette bandeaux with strings for fastening now on the market. They were designed for just this purpose and absorb any little moisture that may seep beneath the edge of your bathing cap. And they are no end helpful in keeping a swimmer's hair soft and fluffy, and her wave perfect in its undulations.

MAN MUST HAVE HELP

A lamp is but the sad, small way
A man has found to take home day
When night is coming. Trust a man
To save what part of day he can.

He has no light inside his brain
To burn like fireflies in the grain
He cannot go like little beasts,
Lit from within them, to his feasts.

Oh, love has not the need of eyes
But man has tasted being wise
And must have help to make his bed,
Being friends no more with dread.

He must have help to make it clear
That there is a deity called Fear,
Old, everlasting, bent above
The sad importance of his love.

Your Children -

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I heard an interesting argument the other day concerning the teaching of religion to young children. Three mothers, all up on their reading and aware of the influences in the world today, each had a different idea about it.

O. R. Barton

"I won't send Mary to Sunday school," one remarked. "I'm not going to have her get a jumbled idea of what it's all about. It makes me shiver to hear friends tell about the funny things their youngsters say in their prayers."

"Well," said another. "We learned that way. If we hadn't, maybe we never would have believed anything. And even if they don't get a clear idea of what it's all about, they sense something. It can be straightened out later."

"Then why not wait?" observed the first. "I wish my parents had let me wait. I still have a hard time trying to get all the wrong ideas I absorbed then to fit in with my ideas now. One day I'm one way and the next day another. I can't get any fixed view in my mind about anything. All I know is that I try to believe in a God."

NEW APPROACH TO RELIGION

The third now spoke up. "Sunday schools go about it differently now. They teach things that children can understand and don't try to expound the catechism to babies."

"I think you can be religious without church and Sunday schools," the first young mother remarked.

"So do I, in a way," put in the second. "But I think that church does something. It keeps things going. If there had not been any church all these years, and we had depended on the flowers and trees to teach us about our spirits and good will to our neighbors, we might be believing in ten thousand sinister devils in every room in the house.

"People have to believe something. They always have. I think we would all be so superstitious it would be dreadful. If some people think we are superstitious in our religion today, I wonder what we would be without it? Of course you get a broader and more intelligent view of things when you learn to think for yourself."

PUZZLEMENT IS BENEFICIAL

Then Number Three spoke up again. "You said a while ago, Mary, that you were all mixed up. One day, I suppose you mean, you are fundamental and the other modern. Do you know, I think that's a good thing?

"When people begin to think and worry about the way to interpret God and our own souls, it shows the matter is keeping alive in their hearts. None of us can fix it. All the preachers know that no one can fix it to everyone's satisfaction. But I agree with Katharine here, that you have to have some start when you're little. What if thought does change? It changes all the time about everything. Anyway I am going to teach Davy about faith and trust and good if I can. I think the world is starving for a little faith in something besides itself."

We might get under the words of these young women and do some thinking ourselves, those among us who are perplexed about this problem of religion for our youth and little folk.

Countess Of Bessborough Thanks Order

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—A most gracious letter of thanks was read at the National executive committee meeting, I.O.D.E., from Her Excellency, the Countess of Bessborough, a national life member, conveying her thanks and appreciation of the Order's expression of farewell.

The novel idea of sending a red Christmas stocking to each chapter in Canada so that every member may make a Christmas gift to the Endowment Fund of the Order, was endorsed. A Christmas tree at National headquarters will fittingly celebrate the returns.

A resolution passed by the national chapter expressing to the authorities its appreciation of the British and Canadian incidents appearing as screen news and urging those responsible to increase the proportion of these incidents was sent on.

The convener for work in India reports that $210.89 has been added to the India Memorial Building Fund at Poona, India. Four new classrooms are in use and thirty new desks installed in the new wing of St. Helena's school.

A letter of condolence on the death of her daughter, Mrs. Philip Kiely, a former member of the national executive committee, was sent to her mother, Mrs. A. W. McDougald, an honorary vice-president of the Order.

The educational secretary announced the publishing of a new book, "Plays and Pageants," containing some of the I.O.D.E. prize plays, for Canadian schools which will be available for the chapters in December. This book is especially written for use in schools.

Over 3,500 naturalization cards were presented by the Order to New Canadians during the past year.

The following prominent men have been added to the Order's advisory board: Dr. W. Sherwood Fox, president, University of Western Ontario; Dr. H. P. Whidden, chancellor, McMaster University, Hamilton, Ont.; J. Preudholme, K.C., Winnipeg, Man.; Hon. W. J. Major, attorney general, Winnipeg, Man.; Col. Wilfrid Bovey, Montreal, Que.; Mr. Wm. C. Hodgson, Montreal, Que.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. W. G. Lumbers, the national president, and the following out of town members were present: Mrs. J. E. Ruby, Smiths Falls; Miss Ethel Raymond, Brantford; Miss A. B. Dwyer, St. Catharines; Mrs. A. R. Tibbits, Ottawa; Mrs. Ryland New, Oakville. A visitor at the tea hour was Mrs. J. R. Wallace, vice-regent of the "Mount Fernie" chapter, Fernie, B.C., who brought greetings.

Pears In Demand For Autumn Salads Both Tasty And Nice

By MARY E. DAGUE

As long as tomatoes are plentiful they answer the salad question in my family and when they get scarce, this year, I have a brand-new bunch of ideas. Did you ever realize what could be done with pears, for instance, both fresh and canned? And with nuts? Take this for one example:

Two ripe pears, 2 tart red apples, 4 teaspoons minced candied ginger, 4 tablespoons diced celery, 2 tablespoons chopped walnut meats, 4 cups shredded new cabbage, 1 tablespoon blanched and shredded almonds, 2 tablespoons shredded green pepper, ½ cup seeded Tokay grapes.

Here are two ways for using pears in autumn salads—halves stuffed with cream cheese or dressing, and as an ingredient in a congealed salad.

SERVE IN NESTS OF CABBAGE

Pare and dice pears. Dice apples without paring. Mix pears, apples, ginger, celery and walnut meats. Mix with French dressing and let stand on ice for 30 minutes. Shred cabbage very fine and let stand in cold water for 10 minutes. Drain and mix with almonds and pepper and enough mayonnaise to make moist. Make nests of cabbage on individual salad plates. Fill each nest with fruit mixture and garnish with seeded grapes.

A nice way to serve mayonnaise is to put it in halves of fresh fruit instead of masking individual salads with it. Or fill the cavities of pears or peaches or apples with cream cheese beaten with cream until light and fluffy.

A fruit salad so often does double duty, answering for both salad and dessert, that it should furnish enough food value to adequately take care of the two courses. Keep this in mind when you serve dessert salads and increase the calories with whipped cream in the dressing or cream cheese in the salad.

IMPERIAL PEAR SALAD

On package lemon or lime-flavored gelatin; 1 cup warm water, 1 cup pear juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon ginger or 2 tablespoons minced preserved ginger, six Bartlett pears, 1 package Philadelphia cream cheese, 4 tablespoons whipping cream.

Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Add pear juice, lemon juice, salt and ginger. When slightly thickened, fold in three pears, pared and cut in neat dice. Turn into individual molds and let stand in the ice box until chilled and firm. Unmold on a bed of curly endive and cress and garnish with pear halves filled with cream cheese blended with cream. Serve mayonnaise in a separate sauce boat for each person to help himself.

Another interesting fruit salad is a stuffed banana and peach combination. Allow one banana and ½ peach for each person to be served. Peel bananas and cut in halves crosswise. Make a boat of each half and roll in lemon juice. Fill each boat with a mixture of cream cheese and salted cashew nuts finely chopped. Put half a peach—either fresh or canned—on a bed of lettuce and fill with a maraschino cherry or peeled and seeded grapes. Put half a banana at each side of the peach and serve with French dressing in a saparate sauce boat.

Tomorrow's Menu

MAPLE LEAVES ARE COLORFUL IN CONTEST

WINNIPEG, Oct. 11—Exceptional beauty of coloring of the leaves and the added attraction of doubled prize money have resulted in a steady flow of entries in the competition for the most beautiful Canadian maple leaf being conducted by the Canadian government through the Canadian Travel Bureau at Ottawa in co-operation with the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian National Railways. Nation-wide interest is indicated by the committee in charge, which is expecting thousands of entries before the competition closes November 1, when the judges from the Royal Academy will undertake the difficult task of selecting the prize-winners.

Widening of the rules permits visitors to Canada to enter maple leaves found in Canada and mailed from a Canadian point. The prize-list provides for an award of $100 to the person sending in a leaf adjudged the most beautiful, and prizes of $40 and $20 as second and third in the same classification. For the largest leaf submitted the prize is $30, with a second at $10.

All entries must be packed according to the rules available a any railroad point, to P. O. Box 1500, Montreal.

It was in 1836, nearly one hundred years ago, that the maple leaf came to be regarded as the national emblem for Canada. In that year the St. Jean Baptiste Society of Montreal formally proposed the maple leaf be adopted as Canada's emblem. In 1860, during the visit of the Prince of Wales, King Edward VII, the maple leaf was officially used as the national emblem, and this was confirmed at Confederation in 1867. In the autumn of that year, Alexander Muir wrote "The Maple Leaf Forever," Canada's national song.

CALDER W.A. PLANS BAZAAR

Business discussion at the recent meeting of the W.A. to the Church of the Good Shepherd, Calder, was devoted to arrangements for their fall bazaar, the date of which is set for Wednesday, November 6.

In the evening an induction service was held in the church, conducted by the Rev. S. F. Tackaberry, assisted by Capt. W. Baker. Following the service a social time was enjoyed in the Parish hall with members of St. Peter's W.A. and Mrs. H. B. Collins and Mrs. J. F. Hall of the Diocesan Board, as guests.

Major air lines last year completed on time 95 to 99 per cent. of all scheduled trips.

JANE ADDAMS SECRETARY TO CARRY ON WORK

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—The life work of the late Jane Addams goes today under the guardianship of her one-time secretary, Mrs. Adena Miller Rich.

A student since her college days of America's foreign born, Mrs. Rich, director of the Immigrants' Protective League, becomes head resident of Hull House, internationally famous social settlement. There she will carry on the tradition and services of Hull House's famous leader, who died last spring.

Hull House is home to Mrs. Rich, who was born in 1889 in Erie, Pa. With her husband, Kenneth F. Rich, a La Salle street broker, she has lived in an apartment for several years that she might devote all her free time to social welfare causes.

FEATHERS ADORN FALL HATS

Feathers of all types and sizes adorn new fall hats. Some swirl upward in Robin Hood manner from the centre of the crown. Others sweep downward to cover an ear or the side of the neck. Then, too, you probably will see hats that are made entirely of feathers. These will be worn on the street as well as to cocktail parties and dinners.

IT'S TIME NOW FOR A CHANGE!

... Canada's Next Government will be Liberal

The people of Canada are about to speak in no uncertain tones, sweeping from power the forces of reaction. Canada will, under the Liberal regime, follow Britain's lead and take progressive steps to end the depression.

• Liberals Stand for Immediate Action to:

- Provide "Work and Wages" on vital, productive work projects—to repair and build Canadian forests, roads, homes, transportation systems; and to create permanent opportunity for all Canadians, young and old.
- Assure adequate Old Age Pensions.
- Get justice for Veterans.
- Place currency and credit under your control—through a Central Bank owned by the Canadian people.
- Repeal Section 98 of the Criminal Code; and guarantee the rights of each Canadian citizen.
- Give workers and consumers a just share in the democratic control of industry.
- Base distribution of the Nation's wealth on social justice, economic efficiency and individual liberty.
- Increase your buying power—by providing "Work and Wages"; cut the cost of living—by less tariffs and more Trade.

The most astute political observers—even the most inclined to be prejudiced against Mackenzie King and the Liberal party—freely admit that Mr. Mackenzie King and his government will be administering the affairs of Canada after next Monday, October 14th, and for the next five years.

These next five years are years of destiny for Canada—and particularly for this city of Edmonton.

This time let the people of Alberta send a solid representation to Ottawa of men in harmony with the government of the day.

Let it not be said that the people of Alberta "always guess wrong" at Federal election time. This time there is not a shadow of a doubt as to the result.

Vote for Edmonton X

Regardless of previous political affiliations, if you are for Edmonton you will vote for the Liberal candidate in your riding.

A Liberal vote is a vote for Edmonton.

Control of Canada's currency and credit was made a private, profit-making monopoly by the Bennett Conservative Government. Mackenzie King and the Liberal party are pledged to making the Bank of Canada a publicly owned and controlled institution, operated in the public interest. Unless this sovereign right is regained there is no chance of needed Social Reforms, Economic Security or Permanent Prosperity. Vote Liberal on Monday, October 14th and put an end to organized greed and special privilege in Canada.

The Blonde Countess

By H. O. Yardley

READ THIS FIRST

Pretty JOEL CARTER is secretary to NATHANIEL GREENLEAF, head of the U.S. "Black Chamber," where much of the real wartime secret service work is done. She dislikes the COUNTESS THORLUND, wife of the Scandinavian ambassador, who wants to work with Greenleaf. One of Greenleaf's assistants, CAPT. BILL MARTIN, is murdered as he discovers the identity of J-37, mysterious woman spy. Joel goes to the embassy ball and dances with CAPT. ANDRE DUVAL. Greenleaf summons her to a room where the French ambassador and other dignitaries are gathered. Captain Duval is brought in.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"IF we could read the German code," said Greenleaf, "we should know not only what they have learned but have a guess also as to how they learned it. That being possible, we make what inferences we can from our half-knowledge. There our allies help. We learn from them that unmistakably important information reaches the enemy—the disposition of certain troops for example. Where does this information come from? This we must guess, and watch every possible avenue. And here we ask your assistance, gentlemen."

Joel thought she detected on the Scandinavian ambassador's face the faintest shadow of surprise. On Captain Duval's no more than intentness, a passionate interest which shone wholly in his eyes.

"You have some practical idea?" the secretary saked.

"Yes," Greenleaf said. "M. Talleyrand and I have a little suggestion to make. We would like your opinion of it."

Captain Duval's eyes rested for a moment on the Scandinavian ambassador and Joel's thought leaped with the question in that glance. Of what concern could this be to a neutral ambassador? Was it indeed safe to trust so wholly to his discretion?

"The device," said Talleyrand, "is the ingenious invention of Mr. Greenleaf. Its application I wish to direct."

"It's a simple enough thing," said Greenleaf, deprecatingly. "You see we want to make sure whether important documents are tampered with. Suppose them, let us say, locked in a safe. Perhaps someone has the skill to open the safe undetected. It is possible despite any precautions. The documents themselves are in sealed envelopes. Yet even these may be opened. How shall we know if they are opened? Really a simple thing. If the inside of the envelope is chemically treated it will on exposure to light, be discolored like an exposed film in a camera. We sensitize the linings, then, when we open the envelopes later we know whether they have been tampered with."

"It looks like an excellent idea," said the secretary, "though I am no judge of these things." He looked inquiringly at the French ambassador.

M. Talleyrand nodded.

"It is ingenious and sure," he said. "Or—" he looked at Captain Duval, "it seems so to me. I should like to employ it under proper supervision."

"We all might use it," said the secretary.

"Perhaps," said the ambassador. "But let us make an experiment. Let us try it in my own office first. I am sure of the loyalty of all those close to me. Still, should I not test them again and again? Who can say when some one of them may not be tempted to betray his country—for money, for love? Men are inconstant creatures. Perhaps they are loyal one day and traitors the next."

"I do not like to think that," said the secretary.

"Neither do I like to think it," said M. Talleyrand with a satirical quirk to his lips. "I am a realist, Mr. Secretary. I have seen such things."

"You may be right, you may be right," the secretary conceded hastily.

M. Talleyrand turned to his aide. "Well, Andre, does it appeal to you, this test, employed in our own office?"

Joel, watching the captain closely, thought that he turned his eyes as with an effort.

"If you think best. But I predict you discover nothing, no one."

The ambassador leaned forward eagerly.

"You doubt it? No, we will find someone." He paused. "Already we have found someone."

The hands lying on the arms of the chair gripped them. On the shapely forehead under the revealing light was a gleam of moisture, but the voice which struggled forth achieved surprise.

"You have tried the experiment?" Captain Duval asked.

The secretary regarded them both with a puzzled air and cast a questioning glance at Greenleaf whose face wore a twisted smile.

"We tried it today, Mr. Greenleaf and I," said the ambassador.

Captain Duval remained silent. Then he said in a mechanical voice: "The experiment, then, was a success."

The ambassador turned to Greenleaf.

"Mr. Greenleaf has the evidence."

Greenleaf drew an envelope from an inner pocket, regarded it speculatively, and turned it inside out disclosing a discolored lining.

"In this envelope was a document of great importance. When reopened by us the envelope contained the document as before but clearly someone had meanwhile read it."

Secretary Higgins asked.

"And there could be no doubt?"

"None. There was even another small but convincing bit of evidence. I need not say what it was."

Joel, who had listened without gathering the full implication of these words, followed the direction of Count Thorlund's intent gaze which rested upon Captain Duval who sat very pale and erect staring into the eyes of his chief. She could not read the meaning of that interchange. That there was in it something profoundly sinister she felt. Some challenge had been uttered, some deadly charge laid. With M. Talleyrand's words she knew, and wondered that she had not earlier seen.

"Andre," she said, "it must be you or I. No one, from the time Mr. Greenleaf prepared the letter in my presence until it was reopened by us, has access to that envelope but you and me. The charge of treason rests on one or the other of us. Which shall it be?"

She knew, of course, what was meant, the incredible accusation of treason directed against this handsome soldierly man. But why, she thought passionately, why did he do it? How could he?

"Andre," the ambassador was saying. "I will give you the chance of honorable death on the battlefield. You did not do this alone. You have given this knowledge to someone. Do what you can to redeem your honor. Tell us your accomplices. I ask in the name of France."

A faint smile rested a moment on the young officer's lips.

"There was no, one," he said without emphasis, as though speaking to himself.

"Impossible!" Greenleaf cried angrily. "A man does not work as cunningly as you have done, endeavoring to conceal every trace of his effort, without making use of his knowledge. It was conveyed to someone."

Captain Duval made no answer to these words.

The ambassador leaned towards him.

"What motive?" he demanded. "Why did you do this?"

"Money," said Duval, cooly.

He had, to Joel, the air of one who fenced with his accusers, employing any argument that came to mind, and little concerned really whether they believed him or not. His mind, his emotions, were elsewhere. Astonishing if this were so. He was indifferent to his life even, for if the charges were true, and he did not deny them, it meant that he would be shot as a traitor.

"I do not believe it was for money," said Talleyrand. "I have known you too long for that. No, it is not money."

Duval appeared to think for a moment. Then he said.

"You forget that I come from Alsace. I have always been, secretly, a German in my sympathies. I have disguised my true feelings hoping, in some such time as this, to be of service to Germany."

The ambassador brought down his open hand with force upon the table.

"You lie," he said. "It is not true. You say, first, it is money. Then you say you are Alsatian and German in your sympathies. You conceal your accomplice. It is a woman and you are in love with her."

Captain Duval drew a deep breath.

"No," he said composedly, "it is not a woman."

Painful Piles

Can be Quickly Relieved

If you think there is no way to relieve the misery of piles, it's because you don't know of HEM-ROID, an internal medicine, from a prescription written by Dr. Leonhardt, a western physician.

The real cause of piles is on the inside—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel, with the tiny rectal veins full of stagnant, impure blood.

Dr. Leonhardt decided the way to relieve piles was internally, with a medicine which would ease the congestion of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and help to heal and restore the sore, tender spots. After many tests he wrote the prescription which has been so successful in giving quick relief from pile misery, it is now offered to you with our promise that you may have your money back if you are not completely satisfied after using one bottle.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, HEM-ROID must show you the quick, clean way to get rid of your pile misery or your money will be given back to you. Merrick Drug Stores or any other druggist can supply you with HEM-ROID and will back up this promise.

A BEDTIME STORY

Story by HAL. COCHRAN   Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

The farmer smiled as he was cheered, and Dotty said, "I sadly feared that you would fail to win a prize. Now everything's all right.

"Your pumpkin was the biggest one, and it was such a pack of fun to see you get the ribbon, that I cheered with all my might."

"Well, thank you," said the farmer. "Gee, I won't forget that you helped me to get the pumpkin to this fair. I owe you all a treat.

"If you'll wait here a little while, I'll do something to make you smile. I'll bet you all could stand a bite of something good to eat."

"Oh, could we!" Duncy yelled. "You bet. We'll eat up anything you get. I'll wait beneath this tree. Here is my chance to take a snooze."

The farmer answered. "Ah, that's right. All rest and build an appetite. I'll hurry on my way, now, 'cause I have no time to lose."

'Course Duncy was the only one who slept. The rest had lots of fun just running 'round and playing tag. They soon grew all tired out.

"The farmer's coming," Goldy cried. "He'll soon be right here by our side. It won't be long till we know what his plan is all about."

"Hey, set a table," cried the man. "And do it quickly as you can. I've brought some knives and forks and spoons; enough for everyone."

Said Coppy, "It won't take us long to sit right down where we belong. Please tell us what your treat is. We're all ready for some fun."

"A pumpkin pie, my little lad. The biggest I have ever had," replied the friendly farmer. "My prize pumpkin you will eat."

Each Tiny got a great big share, and Goldy said, "Oh, this tastes rare. I'm sure I'll eat so much, I'll never get up from this seat."

What's What

Question—Please, how should letters of introduction be written when people ask for them?

ONE OF YOUR FANS.

Answer—A person must be an intimate friend to ask for a social letter of introduction and the one who writes the letter should be a recognized friend of the person to whom it is addressed. It is an impertinence for utter strangers or casually met acquaintances to give letters of introduction to prominent personages, who cannot identify the introducer. Such a letter carries no weight and incurs no obligation; it is ignored at once and forever.

When an authentic friend writes an introductory letter to another friend, the person who has asked for the letter may be only a pleasant acquaintance. In that case the writer introduces the holder of the letter as "Mrs. —— (or Miss —— or Mr. ——), whom I met this summer at ——," and writes privately by mail, describing the slightness of acquaintance. It is discourteous to refuse a letter, unless the applicant is entirely unknown, or known to be undesirable. On the other hand, when a real friend is to be introduced to another real friend, the letter of introduction cannot be too appreciatively phrased. It may be followed by a private letter of even more enthusiastic commendation.

Question—Please explain whose place it is to buy the flowers for a church wedding with a maid of honor and two bridesmaids.

Answer—The bridegroom buys flowers for the bridal party; the bride's parents pay for church floral decorations, if any.

LIGHTNING IS NOT DANGEROUS TO AIRCRAFT IN STORMS

The popular idea that lightning might strike an airplane or dirigible while in flight during storms has been disproved by the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics. In a recent report it states that lightning is not dangerous to aircraft in flight during storms, and that the chief danger during storms is from the wind. The wrecking of the Akron caused many reports to state that the giant dirigible had been struck by lightning, but later investigations showed that this was only a guess and was quite impossible.

A dirigible, when moored at her mast, is trimmed so that the lifting power of the confined bags is constant throughout her length. The rear end, therefore, does not stick up into the air.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

CENTRAL WHEAT BOARD WILL TAKE OVER ALL COOPERATIVE BUSINESS

Allows Adjustment of Payments to Members of 1930 Pools Who Got Initial Payment.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 11.—Negotiations have been completed with the Canadian Wheat Board for the taking over of all wheat and contracts from the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited, L. C. Brouillette, president of the central board, stated here last night.

The transaction makes possible adjustment of payments to members of the 1930 pools who received an initial payment of less than 60 cents a bushel for their wheat, basis No. 1 Northern, Fort William, and to members of the coarse grain pools who received less than the initial prices.

"If the 1930 pool carryover had been thrown on the market it would have been impossible to have carried on stabilization operations undertaken by the government agency under the direction of John I. McFarland," Mr. Brouillette said.

"For more than two years of these operations the 1930 carryover composed nearly 100 per cent of the holdings used in the stabilization operations. The increased price received by wheat producers, as a result of these operations, brought total benefits to growers estimated between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000."

MACKINNON IN APPEAL URGES WOMEN'S VOTE

Talks Direct to "Forgotten Consumers," Tariff Sufferers

Directing his message particularly to women "the forgotten consumer" of Canada, and painting a picture of the pocket-book suffering of these consumers by reason of the high tariff barriers erected by the Bennett administration, Jas. A. MacKinnon, Liberal candidate in the West Edmonton constituency in the Dominion general election of Monday next, in speaking on Thursday night, appealed to the residents to send him to Ottawa to support the policies of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King and thereby bring a reduction in tariffs and terminate exploitation of the buying public. He said in part:—

"A large number of my listeners have seen the pamphlet 'The Forgotten Consumer,' or the copy of that pamphlet published in the papers. I hope the information contained in that pamphlet has set you thinking. Please don't make any mistake—the information in there is definite and authentic.

"The identical articles referred to were bought in the United States and Canada, by Mrs. Chas. H. Thorburn, of Ottawa, and the prices paid by her for those articles are actually correct. Again, those prices were checked in this city before the pamphlet was distributed. Some articles may be purchased slightly cheaper at special sales, but we are discussing regular prices.

TARIFF EFFECTS

"Before I go on, let me state one thing. We have no quarel in this matter with retailers, or wholesalers. We are not trying to discriminate against other brands by mentioning specific brands. Our one aim is to bring home to you who have the spending of the household budget, that the effect of the tariff is cutting your purchasing power by at least one quarter, and I think you will all agree with me that we cannot today afford to have our purchasing power cut by anything like that percentage.

"The difficulty with the followers of the Conservative party is that they do not distinguish between protection of a legitimate Canadian industry, and exploitation on the part of such an industry. I intend to show you this afternoon how you are forced to pay an unwarranted price for your household commodities, and an unwarranted bonus to certain producers of those commodities over and above the legitimate profits they receive in another country.

"The duty chargeable by the government on any article coming into Canada should be the difference in the costs of production and no more. Then it protects the home producer against unfair competition. This is protection, but if the government places on an article duties so high that it virtually shuts the foreign product out of competition with the home producer,' it establishes for him a monopoly under the wing of which he is able to increase his prices to the consumer. This is exploitation.

PENALIZE CONSUMER

"High tariffs not only stifle trade they penalize the consumer. They deprive him of competitive prices. The resulting prices payable by the consumer include excessive duties on inflated valuations—excise and sales taxes on both the inflated valuations and excessive duties—and a profit to those who handle the goods on the excessive amount which they have had to invest in duties and taxation.

"If you have not studied the prices in the pamphlet, let us see just how the Forgotten Consumer is paying.

Another standard brand 37c in Canada, 25c in U.S.

Now remember on this item that coffee is not grown in the States. It must be imported, roasted, ground and tinned the same in the United States as in Canada.

A mayonaise dressing, 1 qt. 53c in Canada, 35c in U.S.

Is there anything in mayonaise dressing that we cannot buy in Canada?

One cleaning powder, the same price for a 4½ oz. tin in Canada as for a 14 oz. tin in the States.

Another cleaning powder, 2 tins for 20c here, 2 tins for 15c there.

Matches, 6 large boxes 50c in Canada, the same quality of matches 21c for six boxes in the States. Even if you deduct the excise tax, it still leaves a spread of 15½c on six boxes."

"That is not a complete list, but I do not want to weary you. Have I said enough to make you realize just what the tariff in this country is costing Mrs. Forgotten Consumer?

"I know that Mr. Bennett has increased the sales tax from 1c to 6c, but that does not by a long way make up the difference in the figures quoted.

BIG MONEY AT STAKE

"Just what is your reaction to this comparison of prices? You have heard a few figures. Important money is at stake. I'll tell you my impressions after due consideration. It is, that Canadian women are being penalized by the government of Canada for living in Canada.

"That is not stating the case too strongly. I think we all like a bargain as well as the next person but I certainly do not intend, and I don't think you intend to leave this country for the sake of getting one. There is a way of registering your protest, and I suggest you mark your ballot on October 14 for the Liberal candidate in Edmonton West in favor of lower tariffs in order to reduce the cost of living.

"In 1923 Mr. King brought in the Combines Investigation Act, which is designed to make illegal all combines, trusts, mergers, or monopolies which have operated or are likely to operate to the detriment of the public.

"For the four and a half years while Mr. Stevens was minister of trade and commerce, neither he nor Mr. Bennett, nor the department of justice, nor the department of labor, made any effort to enforce this legislation, which is designed primarily for the protection of you and me, the consumers. Every year since 1930 large sums of money have been voted for enforcement of the Combines Act. Investigations had been made, but, in no single case has there been any action taken during the Bennett-Stevens administration, for the suppression of these combinations that have been exploiting the public.

STARTED BY LIBERAL

"And don't forget that a motion to make an immediate enquiry into the cause underlying the wide spread between the prices of raw products and the price of goods manufactured from such products was first introduced into the House of Commons by a Liberal, Mr. Robert Mackenzie, M.P., for Assiniboia. That motion was shelved in February, 1933, when it was brought in, and it was not until practically a year later, February, 1934, that Mr. Bennett's motion, set the price spreads enquiry going.

"I have spoken of the Forgotten Consumer. It is an apt phrase. The consumer has no 'pull' with a tariff-mad government. His or her claims are secondary to the claims of those who wish to exploit industry. But the consumer has a vote in elections.

CHANCE AT HAND

"And this time you, my listeners, as consumers have a chance to oust a government which has heaped tariff on tariffs, and which has exercised an almost unbelievable ingenuity in hampering imports and thus strangling trade.

"We have heard a great deal of just price and dividends in this province lately. If you want a just price, a dividend on your purchases, then I say to you, vote Liberal.

"Mr. Bennett must go. The other high tariffer, if I may coin this word, Mr. Stevens, offers nothing in the way of an improvement. The consumer's hope lies in the return to power of Mr. King and a Liberal government."

"My son is a good lad and therefore must suffer. Bruno had to take the blame for everything and give Lindbergh his satisfaction."

CITIZENSHIP NOT SO EASY IN THIS COURT

Mr. Justice Tweedie's Kindly Queries Leave Applicant Dumb

Memorizing answers to the usual questions asked by a judge of persons seeking naturalization won't work any longer with Mr. Justice Tweedie.

Thursday morning His Lordship varied the usual procedure of asking the age and place of birth of one applicant and as a result the latter will have to wait one year before renewing his application and was advised to study English in the meantime.

The applicant a Pole, approached the judge and was sworn.

"How's your crop this year?" was the first question put to the applicant.

The man made no answer.

"Any snow out your way?' the court asked next.

The applicant was still silent.

"You haven't the slightest notion of what I am talking about. Your application is adjourned for one year. In the meantime get your neighbors to teach you the language," His Lordship concluded.

Another applicant was turned down because he is supporting a wife and family in Europe.

"I don't believe in granting the privilege of citizenship to persons who make their money here and send it to a foreign country," the court stated.

"If the country's good enough to become a citizen of, it's good enough to spend your money in," he added.

STUDENT BAN ON POLITICS IS EXPLAINED

DRUMHELLER, Oct. 11.—Explaining his recent announcement opposing political clubs on the campus, Dr. R. C. Wallace, president of the University of Alberta, told a Drumheller audience of teachers and citizens at a banquet here Thursday night that he was advising the student body to invite representatives of all political philosophies to speak to them so that the truth, so far as possible, could be reached before throwing themselves into any issue.

RAISE EMOTIONS

Dr. Wallace in dealing with the new Public school curriculum, to be introduced next fall, suggested that in the past not enough attention had been given to stressing the elements of beauty. It was necessary to raise the level of our emotions, the speaker declared.

Knowledge in education was very important, Dr. Wallace remarked, stressing the need for preparing the student for analysis of issues confronting through life. Subjects should be provocative. Teachers should impress their personality on the children.

BE IMPARTIAL

"Are we doing a greater injury to youth to allow them to go hot foot in to some great cause", the speaker asked, rather than by creating an impartial attitude of enquiry in their minds?"

Burglars Foiled By New Alarm

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—A telephone that "sees" burglars, rings the police station and calls for help while the family sleeps was demonstrated Thursday to telephone men.

Without so much as a human finger to guide the dial or lift the receiver, the 'phone has the cops on the wire as soon as the intruder is in the house—and the thief is none the wiser.

"This is an emergency call," the electric watchdog says, when the police pick up their receiver "There are burglars in John Jones house at 150 West Main street."

is to be the leader, and what its policies," said Mr. King.

The leader was Mr. Bennett, according to his own announcement, and the policy was to be Canada first, the same policy which had brought disaster in the last five years.

"It's a sad confession of defeat on the part of Mr. Bennett and the Conservative party when he tells the people of Canada that he has got to throw up the sponge as far as leading the Conservative party in the next five years. Mr. Bennett, the once proud leader of a once proud party; Mr. Bennett, the man who was so arrogant as to say only majorities should be heard in parliament.

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS

"They say politics makes strange bedfellows, but I say the strangest bedfull of fellows ever seen will be the one which will come about when Mr. Bennett and the varied groups he is now catering to are down together. I don't know how they will work together. They will all be out for jobs or some advantage or other. Canada first will mean every man for himself."

Commenting further on Mr. Bennett's Toronto speech Mr. King said he had never said he would not co-operate with other groups in the house of commons. He hoped that, should he be prime minister, he would receive the same co-operation from Mr. Bennett and other opposition leaders as he had given Mr. Bennett in the past five years.

WHEAT CHEQUES

Returning to the wheat cheque issuance Mr. King said it was just a more brazen instance of the sort of thing the government had been doing for some time, said Mr. King. Mr. Bennett was trying to defraud the people with their own money and to bribe the electors to vote for him.

SAD REFLECTION

"Isn't it a sad reflection on our public affairs," he asked, "that on the day of polling farmers are to receive money whether they are entitled to it or not for the purpose of influencing their votes. I say the farmers of Western Canada will resent that more than anything else. It is their own money, if they are entitled to it at all, and they will resent receiving it as a bribe."

WORKS FOR VOTES

It was not only the farmer who were being treated in this way. On Oct. 6 the awarding of $2,000,000 in public works contracts was announced. This was for the sole purpose of influencing votes and was decidedly irregular when done so close to election day.

"You notice," he said, "I say the Bennett government. I want Conservatives to notice that, for the Conservative party has been shoved into the background in the last five years by its leader, or the man it trusted as its leader."

Mr. Bennett has taken the centre of the stage at Ottawa and pushed his own ministers into the background and humiliated them in public.

Premier Aberhart Denies Official Ban On Cosmetics

Denial that he or the government had issued an order against use of cosmetics as has been reported, was expressed by Premier William Aberhart, prior to leaving for Regina where on Friday night he will address a mass meeting in support of Social Credit candidates in Saskatchewan.

"I have issued no such order and neither has the government," he said. "I do not wish to be credited with such an action when I am not responsible. I have no knowledge of the incidents reported to have taken place and over which other ministers are said to have expressed disapproval, except what I have been told or have read."

SEVEN CANDIDATES AIR VIEWS AT FORUM MEETING

Edmonton Bulletin
AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER IN PUBLIC SERVICE

Little Heckling, Meeting Orderly, Gathering Large

Joint Debate at Empire Theatre Brings Together Representatives Of All Parties.

Issues of the federal election were threshed out from all angles when six candidates and one by proxy, from all parties in both east and west Edmonton, addressed a large meeting in the Empire theatre Thursday night.

There were some 800 people at the meeting, which was held under the auspices of the Edmonton Forum, with Max Wershof as chairman. "There is no better sign of a democratic community, "Mr. Wershof said in prefatory remarks, "than a joint meeting of all candidates such as this, I know of few other countries where it would be possible and I hope that in Canada it will always be possible."

The speakers, led by Col. George B. McLeod, East Edmonton, were Dr. Raymond C. Ghostley, Social Credit protest candidate in East Edmonton; Miss Mary Crawford, C.C.F., West Edmonton; Arthur L. Burrows, Reconstruction, West Edmonton; J. H. Unwin, M.L.A., speaking for Dr. W. S. Hall, Social Credit, East Edmonton; O. C. Doolan, Communist, East Edmonton; Elmer E. Roper, C.C.F., East Edmonton.

Every speaker had his or her supporters in the hall and a strong burst of applause greeted each in turn, though in some cases the ovations came from different sections of the audience. The meeting was orderly and the few interrupters were agreeably silent after gentle reprimands from the chairman.

UNEMPLOYMENT AT FORE

"Today the correction of the great problem of unemployment stands at the fore of all our problems," Col. McLeod said. "The purpose of the Liberal party is to first appoint a commission to consider the best means of dealing with this problem. We will undertake public works of a diversified nature to remove men from the dole and restore their self respect and self confidence by putting them to work at wages.

"To restore private enterprise we intend to recover old markets and create new ones. Tariff barriers must be lowered between nations and the bad feeling which has grown up due to sky high tariff walls removed.

"Mr. Bennett's government set up a new central bank, having some control from the government but not in its operation. The governor of that bank is the greatest autocrat in Canada today. Control and creation of credit should be in the hands of the government."

He closed with the statement, if elected to parliament, he would see that ex-servicemen were properly cared for. The applause was strong.

ACT IMMEDIATELY

Declaring that he was the Social Credit candidate in East Edmonton supporting the promises of the Aberhart government, although he was not listed as "official" nominee, Dr. Ghostley stated the movement was expanding in western Canada. "Our policy is that something must be

NORMANA WINS

BAWLF, Oct. 11.—The Normana softball team were victorious over the Firtle nine, 9-2. Oscar Fadum, teacher at Normana, was referee, while Miss Leona Grafton, teacher at Firtle, was scorekeeper.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

There are 894 candidates for the next Canadian parliament of 245 seats. People in Edmonton, and everywhere for that matter, are highly confused, after listening to the many and varied panaceas offered for the ills of the day. Would you favor a law limiting the number of candidates or parties in an election field, or at least making it necessary for each candidate or party declaring itself a year or so before the elections? That's the question the B.I.R. asked Thursday. Here are a few of the answers he got.

MAJOR JOSEPH A. CLARKE: "I don't think it will be necessary to pass that kind of a law after next Monday, when a few hundred of the candidates lose their deposits."

NORMAN NEVINS, business man: "I think it is an excellent suggestion. The whole thing is so confusing. You can't even get a good program on the radio. Some political aspirant is always blaring forth about the best way to save Canada for democracy, and it's hard on the radio owners' vocabulary."

NICK, waiter at the Shasta: "I think they ought to boost the deposit ante to $1,000. That would certainly chill the enthusiasm of a lot of political hopefuls, and give us a chance to get a good radio program once in a while."

* * *

ROBERT McKERROLL, railway worker: "Anything that will take this army of orators off the air will suit me."

ROAD REPORT

The Alberta Motor Association road and weather report for northern Alberta indicates cloudy weather with good roads in the northeast section of the province. The Jasper highway is rough and the Peace River Highway is in good condition except at Smith and Slave Lake where the road is muddy.

Tender Received For Operation Of City-Owned Arena

Amos Crockett, lessee of the Arena, has tendered again for a lease covering both winter and summer operation of the building, it was learned from Mayor J. A. Clarke Friday. This is the only tender received to date.

The mayor stated city council would not likely make any decision as to the operation of the Arena during the coming season until it was known whether Edmonton would have professional hockey this winter.

Mr. Crockett's tender for the winter lease provides for payment to the city of five per cent. of the first $15,000 of gross receipts, seven per cent. of the next $15,000, and 10 per cent. of all gross receipts over $30,000.

For summer operation, Mr. Crockett has offered the city a flat 25 per cent. of gross receipts.

Police Court

Albert Ronaghan was remanded for trial on a charge of causing bodily harm by wanton driving, arising out of an accident on August 2, when J. Lorne Turner of Ottawa was crushed between Ronaghan's car and one parked in the centre of 102 street, at the north side of Jasper avenue, on which chance tickets were being sold.

Dr. R. J. Bennett testified that Turner, who returned to Ottawa on September 21 while still under treatment, suffered a fractured thigh, fractured lower leg bone, severe laceration of the left leg, contusion of the right leg, contusions and abrasions to the head, body and extremities.

P. G. Thomson, K.C., acting for the accused, elicited from R. T. Clegg, who sold tickets on the lottery car, that it was parked in the centre of the street by written permission of the mayor with consent of the police.

Constable R. Hughes and J. Boynton, brake service man, testified that Ronaghan's brakes were in poor condition at the time of the accident. Turner's evidence had been taken in hospital before his departure.

James A. Ross was in court with a watching brief for Mr. Clegg and A. E. Hatton, who were selling tickets on the car, being raffled for a charitable purpose. William Auxier held a similar brief for Turner.

Pleading guilty to a charge of obtaining $50 by false pretences, Robert William Butler was remanded for one week when he will also appear on a non-support charge. Detective Frank Kingzett told the court that Butler had sold a car, obtaining $50 after $10 commission had been deducted, giving a clear bill of sale when there was a lien against it for $80. He had since paid up the amount of the lien.

Florence Andrews, found guilty on a vagrancy charge, was allowed to go to employment on a farm near Wetaskiwin after being held in custody for a week to keep her away from the bottle. Major Matt Junker informed the court that the girl was anxious to get away from her old life.

For failing to observe a stop sign at 101 street and Macdonald drive, Albert Bakewell was fined $2 and costs.

George Carroll pleaded guilty to negligent driving on the Fort Trail and was fined $15 and costs.

B. W. Pitfield paid the minimum fine of $15 and costs when he pleaded guilty to speeding on the western section of Jasper avenue.

Hon. Charles Stewart Valued Contributor To Alberta Progress

In the career of a public man and specially a Dominion cabinet minister, there are many milestones that stand out from the rest marking unusually imporant occasions in an active and oftentimes tempestuous service to the people.

Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior in the cabinet of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and Liberal candidate in the general election of next Monday in the Jasper-Edson riding, can look back upon many such milestones. But in his 26 years of public service, nothing has given him greater satisfaction than the fact that he was the minister of the interior and minister of mines when Alberta came into possession of its natural resources.

CONTENTION BONE

From the time the province was formed, ownership of the natural resources was a bone of contention. Alienation of resources was protested by the province, but all to no avail.

Journals of the Alberta legislature record debates from the very first session, in which the return of the natural resources formed the subject. Throughout the intervening years, this subject was brought up time and again. Many conferences were held with the Dominion government, but it was not until October 1, 1930, with the government of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King in power and with Hon. Mr. Stewart as minister of the interior and of mines that the Dominion and provincial governments finally reached agreement on terms of settlement. The then premier of this province communicated to the Dominion the sincere thanks of the entire province for the treatment of Alberta in the matter.

The importance of this action, over which Hon. Mr. King and Hon. Mr. Stewart can be better appreciated now, in view of the fact that the Aberhart government is depending so largely on the natural resources to implement a social credit scheme.

Years of experience as minister of mines in this province and later as premier had admirably fitted Hon. Mr. Stewart to strike a bargain satisfactory alike to province and Dominion.

DEPT. PROSPERED

It was when Hon. Mr. King was returned to power in 1921 that Hon. Mr. Stewart was invited to join the cabinet as minister of the interior and mines, exercising jurisdiction over many matters in which the west is vitally interested. Under his dynamic, driving force, agriculture and industry both prospered.

In the years 1921 to 1930, Hon. Mr. Stewart did not only serve hi portfolios. In these years he acted as a member of the Dominion Treasury Board, which has within its jurisdiction, granting of loans and generally dealing with provincial finances. The importance of his contribution to the life of the Dominion in this field cannot be overlooked.

At a time when monetary reform is of such importance to the people and is of such vital importance to the Liberal platform, the workings of the treasury board and knowledge gained by Hon. Mr. Stewart as a member thereof, must stand him in good stead in future deliberations.

MONETARY EXPERIENCE

Experience and expert knowledge in monetary matters are more than ever necessary now and electors of Jasper-Edson are indeed fortunate in having in Hon. Mr. Stewart a candidate with tremendous first hand appreciation of monetary matters and yet who retains his vigorous, youthful enthusiasm and viewpoint.

Short Talks With James A. MacKinnon

Jas. A. MacKinnon

With only a few days left before the votes will be counted and the election decided I would again stress, as I have throughout the campaign, the very grave danger of the vote being badly split, and the principles and platform I am pledged to support, defeated.

This is no time for a government at Ottawa without a working majority. Unless Mr. King is returned we will in all probability have a government controlled by groups, each striving for their own advantage, with embarrassment to whomever the leader may be and real danger to the economic life of this country.

To my friends throughout the riding whom I have been unable to see personally I would ask that they do their best to see that every possible vote is cast in my favor on Monday next. I have long been a citizen of this community. I claim a certain amount of business experience which will stand me in good stead as your representative in the House of Commons.

I believe the best interests of this constituency will be served by having a Liberal member. I believe the slogan "King or Chaos" should be noted, for chaos may well be the result if Mr. Mackenzie King has not a good majority in the House.

Vote X for Liberal policies and sane, progressive administration by casting your vote for me on Monday.

Please vote early.

Vote X.

EX-SERVICEMEN SUPPORT M'LEOD

A full gathering of ex-servicemen met at the McLeod building on Thursday night to make their final plans for looking after the soldier vote on Monday next. H. Walker was in the chair.

Speaking on behalf of Lieut.-Colonel G. B. McLeod, Liberal candidate for East Edmonton, J. McCarthy gave a brief outline of the activities in which the candidate had taken part relating to the betterment of he affairs of ex-servicemen.

He stated that after a very careful and thorough investigation by a committee of ex-servicemen, they had arrived at the conclusion that Lieut.-Colonel G. B. McLeod is the one man who should be sent to Ottawa from East Edmonton to represent the ex-servicemen in parliament.

The speaker asked the veterans to remember that when they go to the polls on Monday and vote for Lieut.-Colonel McLeod they will also be casting a vote on their own behalf.

Comrade Walker appealed to all ex-servicemen to put their weight behind Lieut.-Colonel McLeod and make him a real soldier's representative in parliament.

H. A. Dyde and S. C. S. Kerr both spoke on behalf of James A. MacKinnon, the Liberal candidate in West Edmonton. They stressed the fact that the Liberal party had always taken care of the ex-servicemen, and if returned to office they will continue their efforts on behalf of the veterans.

Mayor J. A. Clarke alluded to his own personal desire to assist the veterans, and said that no matter whether in or out of office it is his wish to do whatever he can on their behalf.

Signs Point To Reopening Throne To Greek Monarch

EX-RULER OF HECTIC TERM MAY ASCEND

Handsome, Debonair Ex-Ruler George II Likely Choice of People

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Handsome debonair ex-King George II of Greece, who was king for 15 months amid a whirling chaos of political intrigue, may soon ascend once more the throne he left in Athens.

The council of ministers, which rules the Greek nation, has set November 15 as the day in which, by a plebiscite of the people, Greece shall say whether the still-youthful former monarch may return to his abandoned throne, or whether the ancient nation shall remain a republic. It is freely forecast that the voting will show a large majority favoring the return of the Glucksburg dynasty.

MAY BECOME DICTATOR

Should George of the Glucksburg regime again mount the throne in Athens, it is expected that he will set up a royalist-fascist dictatorship on the plan of his former brother-in-law, King Carol of Roumania, and reign with the support of a strong clique of military leaders. This, according to his ancient enemy Venizelos, was the fear which drove the veteran patriot to the ill-starred revolution last spring. He is now in exile under sentence of death.

Ex-King George, son of King Constantine and grandson of George I, who was called from Denmark to rule over Greece, was 32 when he mounted the throne. Born on July 20, 1890, he was heir to the throne through the war years while a swirling storm of misunderstanding swept around his father. Hostility from the nation he ruled, fed by resentment at his family ties with warring European rulers, culminted in deposition of Constantine in 1917. With signing of peace treaty came happier years and Constantine was restored to his throne. George married Princess Elizabeth of Roumania, but fortune again failed to favor the Greek royal family. A disastrous war with Turkey turned the army against Constantine and in 1922 he was again deposed, his son ascending the throne.

DID NOT ABDICATE

George's experience in reigning over Greece was as ill-starred as his father's. Republican sentiment, spread by political aspirants, finally touched the army and navy and the end had come. The Glucksburgs were again deposed and forbidden to reside in Greece. George and his queen left Greece in December, 1923, but the king, in a letter to the president of the council, declined to abdicate. "I am going away for a time," he said.

Bucharest saw the exiled pair for a period, but finally London, where he could indulge his love of the theatre, became Georges' home. He came to be a well-known figure in fashionable circles.

But even in exile his troubles were not over. His queen, residing in Roumania, filed a suit for divorce which was granted in Bucharest in July of this year. Reports said that the suit was instigated at the behest of Greek monarchists who saw in Elizabeth—who it was said was unable to bear children—a possible bar to restoration of the monarchy.

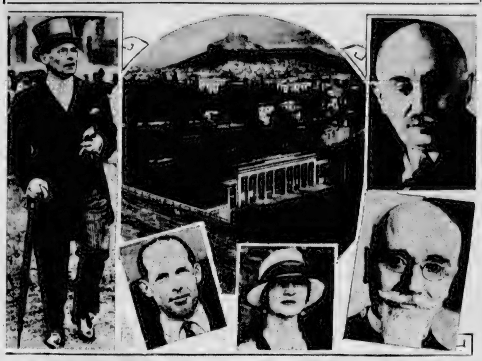
WANTS MAJORITY FAVORABLE

Throughout this period of report and counter-report while Greece seethed internally and monarchist sentiment rose, George sat quietly in London, or continued his travelling, refusing to make a sudden dash for his vacant throne or to attempt to force his return.

Greek leaders met him there, and he was reported to have informed them that not until certain conditions were fulfilled, chief of which was that 60 per cent. of his people must signify their willingness for his return, would he again enter Athens as a king.

The Greek government announced the plebiscite would be held on Nov. 15. With Venizelos gone and strong political and military leaders favoring the kingship again, it is expected Greece will soon scrap the republican constitution it has had for 12 years, when the people vote this month and return the crowned head of George II as head of the state.

When Greek Meets Greek



Greece will soon again hail George II, its king, if national sentiment favoring restoration of the monarchy has been correctly gauged. London will then lose one of its well-known socialites for the exiled king (left) is well known in stage and theatre circles. Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris, top right, has turned from stern republicanism to an attitude favoring the monarchy and sponsors the nation-wide plebiscite to decide the question, Nov. 15. Meanwhile the king's ancient enemy, former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, lower right, is in exile with a price on his head, following an abortive revolt last spring. The former king married Elizabeth, formerly princess, who divorced him. Inset, picture of a view of Athens looking towards St. George's Hill, and the king's palace.

Basic Dividend Citizens Rush

DRUMHELLER, Oct. 11.—The enticing prospect of basic dividends is again reflected in applications for naturalization in the Drumheller district. One month ago ninety such applications were heard by District Court Judge A. M. MacDonald and on Wednesday next a further twenty-three applications will appear before the same judge.

Apart from naturalizations the fall sittings of the district court contain little of interest there being one large debt case and six small debt issues before His Honor with an appeal under the School Assessment Act also to be argued.

BAWLF, Oct. 11.—Malcolm Robson has the honor of having the longest threshing run in this locality this season, 15 days. Owing to the many disasters, drouth, hail, rust, bloom rot and frosts, the crops were exceptionally light and the threshing was soon completed.

HEPBURN IN DEFI UPON HYDRO ISSUE

Answers Bennett Threat To Disallow Ontario Statute

WALLACEBURG, Ont., Oct. 11.—Premier Hepburn asserted in a speech here Thursday that if Prime Minister Bennett is returned to power and "disallows" the Ontario government legislation enabling it to cancel power contracts with Quebec companies, he will dissolve the Ontario legislature and appeal to the electorate on that issue.

"Mr. Bennett said he would disallow our Hydro bill if his party was returned to power," said the Ontario premier. Mr. Bennett, he declared, said Ontario's action in regard to the power contracts destroyed the credit of Ontario and that of the dominion.

WE WILL BUY

"I want to make this offer to Mr. Bennett. If he can buy any Ontario bonds or securities at less than par we will buy them."

When the Liberal government went into power a year ago last June "we found our great public utility in a bad way," he said. "We either had to cancel these contracts or increase power rates to the consumer. We had to choose between the public and private interests.

WOULD DISSOLVE HOUSE

"Am I to take it from Mr. Bennett that he will disallow our bill? Then we will have no alternative but to increase rates to hydro consumers.

"If Mr. Bennett disallows our hydro bill, I will dissolve the Ontario legislature and appeal to the people on that issue."

Sun-Tan Dresses Banned By Firm

MISHAWAKA, Ind., Oct. 11.—Women employes reporting for work at the Mishawaka Rubber and Woolen Manufacturing Company clad in "sun-tan" dresses today were sent home to don more modest garb.

"In the interest of public [illegible] the company, employing 4,000 men and women, banned backless dresses for women employes.

AMBITION CALLS SCREEN CHORINE

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11.—There must have been 60 girls there, pretty young things, in the chorus line. And Geneva Sawyer, a little brunette with smiles, dimples, face figure and everything else, was willing enough to answer some questions about herself and the other 59.

Geneve is 22, unmarried and a native of Minneapolis. Her [illegible] in response to questions about chorus girls in general was, that about half the girls are "intensely ambitious" while the other half are just "going along." They would be glad to get a break if it doesn't come they don't worry too much about it.

"We get $75 a week on a guarantee of 20 weeks of work over a period of six months. The studio can lay us off when it pleases and call us on a moment's notice. I figure my pay has averaged $56 and some cents." But there isn't much left, she says, after clothes, transportation, apartment rent, "permanents" and meals are deducted.

Stock girls, it developed, must be qualified in tap, ballroom and line dancing. They must swim, ride, play tennis and golf, wear clothes well and it helps if they can sing. To speak lines naturally is another requirement.

Cut-Rate Slayer

CANADA MOST FAVORED OF ALL NATIONS

Bennett at London Meet Prideful of Dominion History

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 11.—Canada was "the most favored country of all the world," Prime Minister Bennett last night told a London audience.

Canada has made great progress out of the depression, but great problems remained to be solved, Mr. Bennett said. "If experience is of value, if man learns from the doing, then we should be better able to serve Canada than any other person in it."

GREAT BATTLE

Fighting "the greatest battle the world has ever seen," Canada had been built into a nation out of a wilderness by a population of less than 11,000,000 people. "Throughout it all, the great and historic Conservative party has played its traditional part and will continue to do so, benefiting from the lessons of the past."

Between now and 1937 not only the Empire Agreements to be renewed but $750,000,000 of bonds would mature and would have to be refunded.

CAN BEST DO

"How can we do it? We have done it so well in the past that we saved interest payments to the extent of $17,000,000 a year. Who can do these things better for you?"

The burden of Canada's railway problem was too great to be endured much longer and one definite plan of the government was to seek a solution that would preserve the roads from insolvency and save the jobs of those who operate them. But there would be no major railway move taken, such as amalgamation, without a direct mandate from the people.

Hard Luck Detours Mark Clark Gable's Way to Film Fame

Quit Father's Ohio Farm to Become Doctor and Then Turned Actor

It's a long, rough trail to stardom in the movies and the life stories of those who have won their way to the peak is fascinating reading. In this story, second of the series, written for The Bulletin in which screen topliners tell of their careers, Clark Gable relates how he rose to his present fame, despite misfortune that dogged his steps.

BY

Clark Gable

CLARK GABLE

MY FIRST conscious recollection is of watching a hen lost in a snowstorm. It was a lowering January day. From the kitchen window I watched that hen fluttering nervously around the yard, trying vainly to find her roosting place, utterly bewildered.

At the time I thought it was funny. Since then, many times, I have felt a kinship with that hen. I know what it is to be lost in a storm.

My life began in Cadiz, a small Ohio town, my birthday the first day of February. My father was William Gable, an oil contractor. My mother was Adeline Hershelmen Gable.

I have no memories of my mother, nothing but a few faded water colors she painted in her girlhood. She died when I was seven month old.

My mother's people reared me on their farm in Pennsylvania, on the shores of Conneaut Lake. No other houses were near, and no boys my age in all the neighborhood. Yet I never felt lonely. On Sundays my grandfather hitched the mare to the surrey and we drove to church at Meadville.

MOVES TO "METROPOLIS"

WHEN I was about 5, my father married again and I went to live with him at Hopedale, O., to me a veritable metropolis. Actually, the population was about 500, but I had playmates for the first time in my life. My new mother was a darling and of her I have the tenderest memories.

I am afraid my adolescence in Hopedale was somewhat trying to my friends. I grew too rapidly and was far too shy. In a way I was glad when my father bought a farm near Ravenna, yet I did not went to be a farmer. I wanted to be a doctor.

When I was graduated from high school, I set off for Akron, determined to work my way through medical school. I was 17.

In my first weeks in Akron, I learned for the first time to sympathize with that lost hen. It was the largest city I had seen; it was utterly bewildering.

I managed to land a job as timekeeper in a rubber factory, and to enroll in the pre-medic class of the night school of the University of Akron. I attended school five nights a week; that sixth night was my undoing.

HEARS STAGE CALL

IN A RESTAURANT one evening I struck up an acquaintance with two young actors from the local stock company. They invited me to watch the performance from backstage.

That is a night I never shall forget. It sealed my fate. I knew then that I never should become a doctor; I must be an actor. Before many days I was working in the theatre as a call-boy, and my night school was over.

The first words I spoke on a stage were "Good evening madam." I was playing a butler. It was my great moment. And not many weeks later I learned the first bitter lesson of the theater, that the show must go on. Word came that my second mother had died.

My father could not tolerate the memories of the farm. He sold it and went to the Oklahoma oil fields. I joined him in Bigheart and went to work for $12 a day.

I kept on for a year before striking out for Kansas City to begin two years of varied experience with a small travelling theatrical company. We played in tents, barns, churches, and occasionally in theaters.

We went broke in March in Butte, Mont. I had two dimes, a nickel, and a penny. Once again I knew a sympathy for that lost hen in the snowstorm.

BAD LUCK AGAIN

TOWARD evening a freight train came through. I slept that night in a rumbling box car. In the morning I was in Portland, Ore., and my spirits rose. I had friends there. But before evening I learned my friends were in New York.

There is an element in life that cannot be overlooked or discounted—the element of luck. I still had a penny when I landed a job with a profit-sharing theatrical troupe. My first week's work earned me $7.80, but I never made that much again.

For the ninth week I received $1.30 and decided it couldn't go on. Through a general employment agency I got a job with a party of surveyors, then drifted into a lumber camp at Silverton, Ore., then to the want ad desk of a Portland newspaper, and finally an office job with the telephone company.

But I couldn't keep away from the theater. Through a budding Little Theater movement in Portland, I earned enough money to get to Los Angeles and become one of those nameless agents who haunt the theatrical and motion picture agencies.

My first picture work was as a soldier in an Ernst Lubitsch production.

GETS HIS CHANCE

LOUIS O. MACLOON, the theatrical producer, made me a soldier in "Romeo and Juliet," starring Jane Cowl. After that I had a small part in "What Price Glory." Through a great stroke of luck, I was given opportunity to play Sergeant Quirt; when they told me my work was satisfactory, the reaction made me violently ill. I had tried hard.

The fact that I am in motion pictures today, and with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization, is directly due to Lionel Barrymore. I worked with him in "The Copperhead," and through him I was given my first screen test. When I saw it, I wanted to hide under a chair.

I think the producers must have felt the same way, for I went back to the stage. "Madame X," "Lucky Sam McCarver," "Lady Frederick," and "Lullaby" were followed by "Chicago," and then came 37 weeks in stock in Houston, Tex. There I saved enough to get to the Mecca of all actors, New York.

ON TO FAME

ARTHUR HOPKINS gave me a chance at the leading role, in "Machenal," and after that in rapid succession came "Conflict," "Gambling," "Hawk Island," and "Blonde Widows."

For the summer I was offered a Los Angeles engagement in "The Last Mile." I thought it would be pleasant to pass a few months on the Pacific coast; I never since have gone back to New York to work.

The part of "Killer Mears" brought me another screen test and a contract with M-G-M, and here I have been ever since. "The Easiest Way" was my first picture at the studio, and "Dance, Fools, Dance" my second.

Then came "Dancing Lady," "It Happened One Night," "Men in White," "Manhattan Melodrama," "Chained," "Forsaking All Others," "After Office Hours," to mention only a few, and most recently the picture I have enjoyed most of all, "China Seas," which brought me with Jean Harlow and Wallace Beery for the first time in five years.

Sawn Lumber Being Hauled

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Oct. 11.—Sawn lumber from the Diamond timber limit, 15 miles west across the river, is being hauled in by truck at a rate that will keep the planing mill of the Atlas Lumber Company working for some weeks yet.

There are ten trucks in use, maintaining a 24-hour delivery service in an effort to bring in all the lumber while the roads are good and the ferry is running on the Saskatchewan river. Another heavy cut is planned at the Diamond limit this winter, which will employ a number of local men.

Elevators Again Handling Wheat

TROCHU, Oct. 11.—Elevators at Trochu are again taking in wheat. A shortage of cars left the elevators here all filled and unable to take in the large amount of wheat threshed each day for the greater part of last week.

The situation was somewhat relieved in the west end of the district because farmers there were able to haul to the C.P.R. line west of them. In other sections of the district, however, the situation was critical.

Granaries were soon filled and threshing then had to stop or they had to thresh the wheat onto the ground.

SCHOOL CLOSES AGAIN

DONALDA, Oct. 11.—The Donalda Consolidated school has again been closed on account of infantile paralysis but it is hoped that school will reopen on Monday, October 14. There has been but one case in this district but it was thought advisable to close school another week.

TYPHOID CASE

ST. PAUL, Oct. 11.—Three children of one family, aged 16, 14 and six years, were taken seriously ill with typhoid fever. The well is believed to be the cause of the disease as no others are affected.

HOWSON BACKS CANDIDACY OF COL. G. B. M'LEOD

Alberta Liberal Leaders Speak in Federal Campaign

Speaking at Ritchie school on the south side on Thursday evening on behalf of Lieut.-Colonel G. B. McLeod, the Liberal candidate for East Edmonton, the Alberta Liberal leader, W. R. Howson, K.C., M.L.A., said that the main thing about the coming election is to make sure which party has the policy that will take the country and people out of the state they have been in during the last five years.

A vote given for the Conservative candidate, he contended, is a vote for a continuance of these conditions, but a vote for Colonel McLeod means the return of prosperity that characterized the Liberal government for the peroid from 1921 to 1930.

The candidate, Lieut.-Colonel G. B. McLeod, was given a fine reception by the gathering on his arrival. In his remarks he called special attention to erroneous statements made by the Conservative candidate concerning what he had previously said about the reduction of ex-servicemen's pensions.

PRACTICAL POLICIES

In opening his address, W. R. Howson thanked the people of the district for the support given the Liberal candidates in the recent provincial election. So long as he is leader, the Liberals will only present a program that can be put into force and adapted for the general benefit of the people. He warned his hearers to prepare for disappointments in the next twelve months.

Turning to the matter of the federal election, he said that on Monday the people will elect a man to do a job for them at Ottawa, and they will pay for this work. Therefore it is necessary they should see that a practical man is hired and one whose policy will work out for the benefit of the people.

NO S. C. PROGRAM

Among the 245 seats in the house of commons, he asked, what can the Social Credit candidates give that will be of use to Alberta.

The Social Credit federal group has no program to offer, not even $25 per month, as they did in the provincial election.

He had listened to the C.C.F. candidate in East Edmonton. All he heard was the candidate say that the other parties and candidates are all wrong and that he is the only one in the campaign who is right.

The electors have two choices in the candidates they might support. The Conservative candidate or Col. McLeod, the Liberal candidate.

GREATEST OPPORTUNITY

Proving his assertion that the Liberal party offers the best chance of bringing the country out of the depression, Mr. Howson recalled the low state of the country before 1896, when farmers were hardly able to provide for their families. Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into office and brought prosperity to the country by opening up Canada to the world's trade and commerce.

THEN DEPRESSION

Mr. Howson described how after Sir Wilfrid Laurier was ousted by the Conservatives the country again suffered depression until 1921, when from that date until 1930, the Liberal leader Mackenzie King brought it back to prosperity.

"The whole situation comes down to this," said Mr. Howson, "which party offers us a policy that will give us a job, and help the other fellow to work?"

If the people want a change of present conditions, they will vote for Lieut.-Colonel McLeod, who is supporting Mr. King, whose policy it is to re-open the world's markets to the products of this country, and thus start moving the wheels of trade and industry.

Lieut.-Colonel G. B. McLeod said that it was necessary for him to call attention to the erroneous statements that are now being made by Colonel Bowen, the Conservative candidate, in regard to soldier pensions.

BOWEN INCORRECT

"I must call your attention to the incorrectness of Colonel Bowen's remarks," said Lieut.-Colonel McLeod. "I made no suggestion whatever that Mr. Bennett had made a statement of discontinuing pensions amounting to five or six millions yearly.

"I said that the return was made on the floor of the House by Mr. Rhodes and reported in Hansard, where Colonel Bowen can find it, and if he cannot do so I will find it for him."

"I do not want to bring the ex-servicemen into this election, but when such statements are flaunted all over the city I cannot fail but take some notice of it.

PENSION ISSUES

Continuing, the speaker stressed his conviction that the policies of the Liberal party under Mr. King will lift the country out of the depression. He placed stress upon his own personal attitude towards old age pensions, and said that he wanted to see an extension of the plan as one way to help the youth of the country and to give the older generation what is their due.

VAN ALLEN HEARD

G. H. Van Vlien, K.C., gave an address in which he devoted himself mainly to the question of social credit and its part in the election. He stated that social credit supporters can vote for Colonel McLeod without loss of principle on their part. He pointed out that no one could have given a fairer assurance than Mr. King did to Mr. Aberhart that Social Credit will get fair treatment under a Liberal government at Ottawa.

Ald. Hugh John McDonald spoke of the personal characteristics of the candidate, Lieut.-Colonel G. B. McLeod, and said that men like him are wanted in public life, men who know the life and conditions under which the people of the community are living.

J. Scott carried out the duties of chairman.

He's Growing Up

Toby Wing, vivacious blonde screen actress, and Jackie Coogan, former child star of the movies, were pictured here shortly before they announced their engagement. Wedding plans are dependent upon parental action. Coogan, who leaped into the movie limelight as the infant in Charlie Chaplin's "The Kid," will give Miss Wing as an engagement token, a ring once owned by his father, John Coogan, Sr., who recently was killed in an automobile accident.

POLICE HEAD ACTION IRKS WOODSWORTH

Maj.-Gen. MacBrien Scored For Approving Anti-Red Literature

WINNIPEG, Oct. 11. — Major-General J. H. MacBrien, commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, was criticized last night when J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, denounced communism in a federal election campaign speech.

Declaring the C.C.F. was opposed to the Communist party, Mr. Woodsworth also drew attention to anti-Communist literature which "carried the approval of General MacBrien."

"What right has General MacBrien to approve or disapprove literature of a political nature," he asked. The commissioner of the R.C.M.P. was far exceeding his authority.

Mr. Woodsworth said a pamphlet had been placed in his hands which showed general MacBrien's action. It was a pamphlet written by "Superintendent F. J. Mead" and reprinted by the Anti-Communist League of Canada, of Flin Flon, Manitoba.

"And," added Mr. Woodsworth, "it carries the line 'with permission of Major MacBrien, R.C.M.P.'." He charged such action was a violation of police duty and constituted participation in politics.

Funeral Held For Nordegg Pioneer

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Oct. 11.—The funeral of Mrs. H. Prato, 52, of Nordegg, mother of Philip Prato of Rocky Mountain House, who died in hospital here, took place Monday in Nordegg, with services conducted by the Rev. Father Francis Gillis. She is survived by two daughters and her husband in Nordegg and her son here. The family are among the old-timers of Nordegg, settling there when the town first started.

Even the Mice Smarting

Eat Diaphragm Of Farmer's Radio

Under Present Conditions

LAMONT, Oct. 11. — "What are we? Men or mice?" The old queries have gone by the board. It used to be that harassed males, smarting under some indignity, howled these questions to high heaven and then proceeded to take some action to prove that they were men, and not mice.

But it's all changed now, and the mice have come into their own. They're the animals with the nerve and the will to do something about it when they don't like conditions, and all mere man can do is grin and take it.

For weeks past the men of this district, and their womenfolk, have been disgusted with the flood of election propaganda coming over the radio. At any hour of the day or night that the radio was turned on nothing but election speakers were heard. The whole district was ready to turn Red, but they couldn't shut off the flood of electoral oratory.

But it was different with the mice. Suffering from a lack of the necessities of life, food, clothing and shelter, since the crops in this district are frozen, the mice have invaded the farm homes. At the home of Tom Wachowicz, in the Star district, it was a toss-up which was the worst nuisance, the mice or the radio. But the mice solved the situation.

They got fed up with the radio too, apparently, and when Alex Mitchell, local radio dealer, was called out to make repairs, he found that they had taken direct action. All Mitchell could get from the radio was a rattle. He investigated and found that the mice had eaten the diaphragm completely out of the machine.

Now the Philco people in Edmonton are sending in their claim to the Jinx Editor at their head office. They say its the best jinx claim yet.

PROVOST AREA THRESHING ENDS

PROVOST, Oct. 11. — Threshing throughout this district was completed by the week-end, after a fall season of the best weather conditions for field work experienced for many years. There have been fewer stops on account of rain than usual, and a comparativly small amount of outside labor has been employed during the harvest and threshing operations. In addition, a number of local men left last week for western points, where work was reported to be obtainable for another week or two.

Yields locally have not been good, wheat being reported as running from five to ten bushels an acre, with higher yields scarce and only a small proportion of the crop grading No. 1 northern. The heavy frost of the second week in August was responsible for the drop in grades, as well as for a good deal of the depleted yield.

Lift Marriage Ban

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The recent lifting of the marriage ban against women teachers and women doctors under the London county council is likely to be followed by the council allowing women clerks to keep their jobs after marriage.

NEW BOMBER CARRIER OF DESTRUCTION

Speeds With Guns, Bombs, Gas, For Warfare Uses

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11—A new Vultee observation bomber, described by experienced aviation men as "The most powerful air weapon ever devised," has completed secret factory tests and will be submitted to the United States army for approval.

Perhaps the most striking development of the 850-horsepower bomber, which can fly at 250 miles an hour, fully loaded, is its canopy of shatter-proof glass, which permits unobscured vision and preserves low air resistance.

The big ship also can carry pressure tanks for poison gas to be discharged over trenches at 250 miles an hour.

Press Collections On Seed Grain

PROVOST, Oct. 11.—Settlement for seed grain, furnished last spring jointly by the council and the provincial government, formed the whole agenda Saturday when the council of Sifton municipal district met, with Reeve Thompson in the chair.

As the result of previous deliberations, it had been decided to make formal grain seizures in all cases, and 52 seizures had accordingly been effected. Re-inspection, it was found, would be necessary in 22 cases.

TARIFF BOARD SETS HEARING FOR NOV. 18

Interrupted During Run of Federal Election Campaign

OTTAWA, Oct. 11—The gasoline inquiry will be resumed by the tariff board in Ottawa, Nov. 18, chairman George H. Sedgewick announced Thursday.

The inquiry as to whether the tariff on gasoline and other derivitives of petroleum is too high was started last summer on application for the executive of the Co-Operative Trading Association of Saskatchewan, Regina.

It was discontinued during the federal election campaign after evidence had been taken in various parts of the country. All briefs must be in the hands of the board, Oct. 29. Inquiry into the automotive industry will be resumed next Jan. 7.

The inquiry has particular reference to the bearing on the industry of customs and excise duties or taxes, the relationship of production of parts to the larger industry, principles and operations of drawbacks for domestic consumption, matters as to content and cost of distribution and prices at which motor vehicles shall be sold at retail in Canada. The briefs must be in Oct. 29.

Women Sought As Cattle Rustlers

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis., Oct. 11.—Women cattle rustlers were the object of search Thursday. Authorities said they found prints made by women's high heels in a pasture where two Guernsey heifers were stolen from a herd.

The cattle had been completely butchered and dressed before being removed from the field.

Custody Of Boy Star In Question

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11.—Freddie Bartholmew, 11-year-old English boy who became a movie sensation by his work in the picture "David Copperfield," and saw his weekly salary jump from $100 to $1,250, soon may find himself the centre of a custody fight. Miss Millicent Bartholmew, aunt and guardian of the youngster, said Thursday through her attorney that she would take steps to gain permanent custody of Freddie, who has been in her care since he was three years old.

Burial Service Halted By Fire

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 11.—A burial service was halted temporarily at a funeral home yesterday afternoon when a fire broke out in the basement of the building. The body was removed to a hearse outside while the flames were extinguished.

Ghostley Replies To Vicious Terms Used By Hall Mouthpiece

Protest Social Credit Candidate Resents Attack of J. H. Unwin, M.L.A., Speaking for Dr. Hall at Forum Meet.

Stating that he had only entered the present federal campaign in East Edmonton as a protest Social Credit candidate at the request of friends who, with himself, were perturbed at the manner in which the official candidate was chosen and after the official nomination had been taken away from him, although Dr. Hall had been beaten in two conventions by the Ghostley supporters, Dr. R. C. Ghostley replied to an attack made upon him by J. H. Unwin, M.L.A., today.

Dr. Ghostley's statement, setting forth the facts in the case as he sees them, is as follows:

"At a meeting of all federal candidates, held by the Edmonton Forum at the Empire theatre, Thursday evening, October 10, J. H. Unwin, M.L.A., Edson, clarion mouth-piece and substitute speaker for Dr. W. S. Hall, official Social Credit candidate for East Edmonton, took the opportunity of attacking me in vicious terms and by misleading statements, according to information from several parties who overheard his remarks.

WON TWO CONVENTIONS

"In view of this fact, I wish to make the following reply to Mr. Unwin and Dr. Hall and clarify the public mind in regard to several things regarding the two nominating conventions and the patronage influence controlling the advisory board in the final selection of a candidate for East Edmonton constituency.

"Mr. Unwin referred to me as a 'Double-Crosser,' because as he stated I had pledged myself to support the candidate before the advisory board. This was a form of intimidation used by the advisory board which demanded this pledge in the face of the danger of not being selected, thus depriving a candidate of his freedom of conscience by dictatorial methods. Had the advisory board acted fairly and without prejudice, I would not have repudiated this pledge, even though it was exacted unfairly.

"Regarding the charge, 'Double-Crosser,' Mr. Unwin is well informed upon that phenomena of psychology himself. How did he win his nomination at Edson for a provincial seat, after another candidate for nomination beat him at the convention? By the same tactics of patronage manipulation, as I am informed, by other parties in the convention.

CONVENTION WAS "FIXED"

"Again, how did Dr. Hall win the advisory board decision by a tie vote of the members, all M.L.A.'s, after I had beaten him in two conventions, by votes of delegates, although the executive and chairman controlling the convention locked me out of the convention and placed two policemen at the door for fear of 'sanctions' upon my part, a most unheard of situation at a convention ever known in Edmonton.

"Mr. Unwin was apparently, the most influential member upon that advisory board. As is well known by several, Mr. Unwin has been under obligations to Dr. Hall for some time past, and because of this fact I charge that he could not function on that board as an unbiased member. Had he been the 'square-shooter' his charges against me would imply, he would have retired from the advisory board.

"Recently, the chairman of the East Edmonton federal constituency Social Credit executive, made the statement in the presence of myself and a witness that, the moment the convention voted the advisory board into being, it was 'fixed' for Dr. Hall. I am informed that Dr. Hall boasted of this fact himself in the presence of certain parties.

NEEDS NO SUBSTITUTE

"I felt the awareness of this fact myself at the time, as the chairman of the executive arose in the convention at the moment the matter was approved by the convention and came over to Dr. Hall, sitting alongside myself, and shook hands with him and congratulated him on the fact.

"If I go to Ottawa I will not employ a substitute to speak for me before the house of commons, I will speak, work and fight for Social Credit and my constituents.

"R. C. GHOSTLEY."

Bowen Pleads For Bennett Support

Claiming for Premier Bennett an administration which has, during the past five years, given a sound, orderly administration of national affairs with security for Canadian citizens and their homes and families, Col. P. E. Bowen, Conservative candidate in Edmonton East, spoke at Norwood school on Thursday night.

As a westerner Premier Bennett had shown himself sympathetic to farmers and the west generally, and to have a good grasp of their problems and the right method of solving them, said Col. Bowen. The government had found markets for farm produce at better prices, he claimed.

L. Y. Cairns, K.C. also spoke along the same lines.

Drunken Kitten Reveals Still

DOWNEY, Calif., Oct. 11.—A federal liquor tax agent gazed in wonderment at a cat. The cat wobbled out of a farm on the outskirts of Downey, mewed at a nearby cow, jabbed weakly with a paw—and then rolled on its back.

The agent sniffed. Suspicion became conviction. Inside the barn he found a barrel of fermenting mash and a 10-gallno still.

MILLER WINS POTATO PRIZE

W. Miller, 11942 62 street, led a field of 200 entries by taking two firsts and one second prize to capture the honors in the Edmonton Horticultural and Vacant Lots Association's annual potato show being held in the Hudson's Bay company store Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The judging was completed Thursday

B. Thompson, 12012 102 street, took second place with two firsts to his credit.

There are eight different classes in the show. Of special interest to the public is the freak shaped potato class and the largest potato class. The largest potato entered was over 10 inches long and was 13½ inches in circumference. It was large enough to make a real meal for an average-sized family.

Freak-shaped potatoes, which resembled animals, ducks, airplanes, and one resembling a man, were among the entries.

Of special interest was a blue colored variety, oblong in shape, colored similarly to a beet and about 7 inches in length.

There is also an exhibit showing by example the kind of potato which should not be grown. It had a large label which read, "The Horrible Example—to obtain this result use any old seed, select poor soil, do not cultivate, trust entirely to Providence." It attracted a good deal of attention.

J. W. Marritt was judge of the show. E. Jarron, secretary of the Horticultural Association is in charge and has had complete control of arrangements.

LIST OF WINNERS

Here are the complete results:

Six round white potatoes—1, Miller; 2, Mrs. J. W. Williams; 3, E. Bradshaw. Six round colored—1, J. Field; 2, J. J. Oldridge; 3, Mrs. H. W. Nichols. Six oval white—1, B Thompson; 2, W. Miller; 3, C Bailey. Six oval colored—1, J. Atkins; 2, D. H. Barnes; 3, H. Summerville.

Collection of five varieties, six of each—1, W. Miller; 2, J. J. Oldridge; 3, J. Field. One peck any variety graded—1, B. Thompson; 2, Mrs Williams; 3, J. Field. Most outstanding freak—C. Porter. Largest potato, normal shape—1, Mrs. Summers; 2, G. Wells; 3, Mrs. D. Haley.

THURSTON TURNS SHOW TO DAUGHTER

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 11.—A paralyzed left arm halted the career of Howard Thurston, the magician, Thursday, and he turned the wand over to his 23-year-old daughter, Jane.

The 66-year-old sleight-of-hand artist gave up hope of being able to return to the stage immediately and the troup with which he started a winter's tour returned to New York without him.

Thurston, in a hospital where he was taken after a stroke of paralysis Sunday night, told Jane to reorganize the show and take over the centre of the stage which he has occupied for 45 years.

Physics Body Is Addressed By Dr. J. W. Shipley

Significance of the existence of light and heavy water was explained to a meeting of the Physics society in the Medical building of the university Thursday evening. Dr. J. W. Shipley was the speaker, and said that were it not for the fact that water reaches its maximum density at four degrees below zero, all the lakes and rivers would freeze solid, from the bottom up, that some probably would never thaw and the life that exists in such bodies of water at the present time would be unable to survive

Animal life in water is only made possible because water after reaching a temperature below four degrees, is lighter than water at four degrees. Such colder water rises to the surface, crystallizes and forms a protective coating of ice

Another significant fact related by the professor was that water in forming ice actually gives off heat. This fact is responsible for the warm effect which is experienced following a snowfall. It is this same fact which accounts for the warm winds known as Chinooks experienced in parts of western Canada

Hot water heated; hardwood floors; two lots; gas in. $3,000.00! ! ! Terms.

The outside could do with a coat of paint. The owner has to have $750.00 cash at once and the balance $50.00 per month or will take $1,800 cash.

There are six lovely rooms and bath. Maple floors downstairs and built-in brick fireplace in large living room. Full basement with hollow cement block walls. Nice pantry off kitchen. Splendid bathroom, generous staircase and all large airy bedrooms with closets. Gas heated garage.

Today's Markets

At Montreal

MONTREAL, Oct. 11.—Power stocks led a broad recovery on the Montreal Stock Exchange today as trading increased sharply.

International Power preferred jumped 4 points to 49 and Shawinigan rose 2⅝ points to 18⅞, while Montreal Power at 31½ was up ¾. B.C. Power A advanced a point at 25.

At Toronto—Mines

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—While maintaining a generally firm note, the mining list of the Toronto Exchange was less buoyant today, particularly in the afternoon.

Bralorne lost 25 and Pickle Crow 8 to 2.87. Little Long Lac lost 15 cents and San Antonio, McWatters, Siscoe and Macassa 1 to 3 cents each.

At Toronto—Industrials

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—Irregular price movements marked the trading today on the Toronto Industrial share market, the liquors leading the up trend and the oils showing a declining tendency. Volume was moderate.

At New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Renewed demand for industrial specialties whirled these issues up to new highs for the past year or longer in today's stock market.

Rails were inclined to back up, however, and the list encountered profit-taking around top levels. But most of the leaders were not far under their peaks of the session and the close was firm. Transfers approximated 2,000,000 shares.

Broomhall

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—Import of Canadian wheat into the U.S. with duty paid, last week totalled 723,000 bushels, making a grand total of 6,275,000 since July 1, compared to 3,547,000 a year ago. The daily figure of Canadian marketings of wheat is larger than a year ago and the total will shortly pass last year's total. The domestic buying and sales for export have recently been insufficient to absorb these large quantities and the visible supply continues to increase. Sales of c.i.f. wheat in Liverpool were much larger yesterday. All traders were covering short commitments in England yesterday due to the less favorable political outlook.

WHEAT PRICES DRIFT LOWER

WINNIPEG, Oct. 11.—Wheat prices drifted to lower levels on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, falling into line with similar trends in outside markets. Values closed ¾-⅛ cent lower, October at 92⅜, November 92¾, December 92⅝-¾ and May 96⅜-½ cents.

Export sales of an estimated 250,000 bushels of Canadian wheat stayed the recession only momentarily as general liquidation and profit-taking at Chicago encouraged liberal selling here.

Chicago was off more than a cent at one time. Prices at Liverpool closed 1¼-1½d lower. Buenos Aires was down ⅞ cent at noon.

Cash grains spreads eased fractionally. Coarse grains receded with wheat.

CATSY MILLS' Edmonton Hi-Grads will be idle as far as actual gridiron warfare is concerned this week-end, but their rivals of last Saturday, University of Alberta, will be tackling University of Saskatchewan here tomorrow. . . . The Varsity team has lost to both the Hi-Grads and Calgary Bronks in their two starts so far this season and the student pigskin-chasers are anxious to mark up their first triumph at the expense of their collegian rivals from Saskatoon. . . . A win over Saskatchewan U. will give them a start towards possession of the Hardy Trophy, emblematic of the Western Canada intercollegiate championship.

Under the coaching of Jake Jamieson, former Ottawa star, the Varsity squad should improve right along. . . . Jamieson has not had long to work with the players as yet but will be drilling them hard from now on.

THE Bronks' 26-0 triumph was pretty well expected, as they had a couple of good games under their belts, as well as having more material than Varsity. . . . For Edmontonians who had not had an opportunity to witness the southerners in action this season the Varsity game against them a week from Saturday will be one of the year's outstanding attractions. . . It will be the first time, incidentally, that Carl Cronin, the former Notre Dame quarterback, ever dug a cleat into an Edmonton gridiron and all football followers will be anxious to have a look at him.

Hi-Grads, unless they can arrange some games with teams in the south, are not likely to see much action this fall. . . . Their main hope of getting opposition is with Varsity, but, as the students have a schedule that includes both Alberta and Inter-

Edmonton Now Preparing For Bulletin Road Race

Marathon Runners Set For Annual Fall Classic Here

With Edmonton garbed in its best holiday garments, the Bulletin road race will enjoy a colorful setting and ideal conditions. The sport-loving enthusiasts of the city will flock out in their usual great numbers to witness this annual fall classic, which has proven itself such an interesting and thrilling contest in the past. With the throngs lining the street the runners will race in on the home stretch with a last burst of energy and speed, cheered on by the crowd and spurred by the vision of the Bulletin trophy awaiting the winner to deserve for him the title of a champion.

Marathoners have still twelve days ahead of them to practice and get in top shape for Thanksgiving Day. Many of them have been going through strenuous paces for weeks, showing their interest and the determination of each and every one of them to come out on top or give the winner a good run for his money.

IMPRESSIVE RECORDS

Of the three entries received to date, two of them have impressive records to bank upon. Jerome Platt of Taber is somewhat of a veteran in distance running, having won a six-mile marathon in Alberta in 1933 and winning quite a reputation for himself at the University of Utah. Tommy Aird is well known here and boasts an equally good record, including a win in the Bulletin marathon in 1933. B. Mead, our third entry, also promises good competition and is working himself into top-notch condition.

Many more entries are expected in the twelve days left before the race and the field should be starry and numerous, giving fans a real good race. While word has not yet been received from Jack Wahlberg, he is expected to enter in the near future, as a win again this year will make him permanent holder of the trophy.

Marathoners wishing to enter are asked to communicate with the Sports Editor, the Bulletin, without delay, either by filling the entry form published daily in the Bulletin or by letter.

Golden Bears Play Saskatchewan Club At Local Stadium

Local University Faces Third Trial In Short Space of Eight Days As Series Opens.

The University of Alberta Golden Bears will face their third trial in eight days Saturday at 3:00 o'clock, when they meet the University of Saskatchewan Huskies on the Varsity grid. This will be the first game of a home and home series for the Hardy Cup and the only inter-collegiate football game to be played in Edmonton.

University of British Columbia having dropped out of the western intercollegiate union, is not as in past years eligible for competition, which leaves only the Alberta and Saskatchewan universities to compete for honors and therefor the cup will either come to the U. of A. or remain with the present title-holders, Saskatchewan.

HUSKIES WON CUP

Last year the Saskatoon Huskies won the trophy by virtue of their victory over the Golden Bears in a sudden death game, after the latter team had downed the Victoria contenders in a series at the coast.

Having suffered two successive defeats in as many games this season, Coach "Jake" Jamieson's U. of A. Bears are out to vindicate their reputation with plenty of determination and some valuable re-enforcements. Don Masson and Alex Denovan, two outstanding linesmen who have been out of action since early in the season on account of injuries, are both expected to be back in the line-up for tomorrow's battle and will lend valuable strength to the team. "Blimey" Hutton, regular U. of A. quarterback, injured in the game against the Hi-Grads, is also expected to fill in his regular position.

On the other hand, Coach Kent Phillips is invading the campus with as strong a team as the U. of A. has ever fielded, which will mean plenty of opposition for Alberta and plenty of action for the fans.

Alberta will play the second and final game of the series at Saskatchewan later in the season.

BLOCHLINGER. INKSTER BOUT HEADLINE GO

As Pro Card Presented This Evening At Empire Theatre

Tonight at the Empire Theatre, Johnnie Blochlinger gets his big test when he meets Don Inkster of Vancouver in a 10-round bout. A win over the Vancouver puncher will lead the way to bigger and better fields for Johnnie, probably deserving him a bout with Emil Lust of Medicine Hat, and if he comes out on top again, a crack at the welterweight champion of Canada, Gordon Wallace. All of which means that Blochlinger will step into the ring tonight with a world of determination.

Nevertheless this boy Don Inkster is no push-over for any welter-weight, but on the contrary constitutes a real threat. His record brands him as an experienced boxer who has seen plenty of action with many good outstanding hitters of Canada. He has fought 23 pro bouts, including one with Gordon Wallace, to whom he lost a decision. He has the reputation of being rugged and tough and it is improbable that he would lose by a knockout.

Passing in review the dope spread around on this fight, one could size it up to something like this: Blochlinger is heavier, taller and has a longer reach than Inkster, but he has less experience; nevertheless if the fight goes the whole ten rounds he might have an edge on points. On the other hand, Inkster has more experience and is tough and rugged, all of which means that he can take it, and it remains to be seen whether he can give it as well. In any event patrons who turn out for the fight will witness a nice battle.

Steve Stogie and Freddy Gruden will go into action in an eight-round semi-windup which should prove to be quite a scrap. Both these boys are heavy on the blows and will give each other plenty to worry about.

Preliminaries will see W. Burnett mix it up in a six-round go, while Gordon Williams and Gordon Stogie tangle in a four-round curtain raiser.

Officials in charge will be Doug Kerr and Allan Sachse.

AMERK BOSSES TO GET SQUAD IN ICE DRILL

Dutton And Hemer Are Ready For Early Season Training

OSHAWA, Ont., Oct. 11.—Marvin "Red" Dutton, manager, and E. R. "Rosie" Helmer, of Calgary, coach, arrived in Oshawa yesterday to complete arrangements for the pre-season training of the New York American Hockey Club of the National League. Actual training will begin next Wednesday at the local arena, with the players slated to start arriving over the week-end.

Equipment of the team will be in readiness for distribution to the players when they report to the manager Tuesday. The team will remain here until just before the opening of the N.H.L. season, and, as in the past, will play several exhibition games while training here.

The acquisition of Nels Stewart and Joe Jerwa of Boston and Harold Cotton of the Toronto Maple Leafs will bolster the team considerably, in Manager Dutton's opinion. It was stated that deals are now underway that might send other well known players to the Amerks. There is also a possibility that several players from the St. Louis Eagles, including Carl Voss, might be taken for a trial.

In the famous obstacle race, held each year for the recruits, J. B. A. Fleming, of Oakville, was first: E. M. Williams, Victoria, B.C., second, and H. S. Morrissey, of Westmount, third.

Lacrosse Final Set For Eastern Canada Next Year

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11.—Delegates to the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association meeting, reconvened Thursday, decided the Mann cup championship series will be held next year in Eastern Canada and that the winners will play an exhibition series in the province of Quebec.

Committee were named for eastern and western Canada to handle arrangements for a possible Canadian junior championship series, which would depend on the ability of the various provincial associations to finance play-offs. If eastern and western winners were named, the C.A.L.A. would arrange the final series.

The venue of the Mann cup final was left to the discretion of the C.A.L.A. executive.

Delegates will meet again tomorrow to clean up the financial report.

HELMER REPORTS TO HOCKEY CAMP

Helmer, born here, left Windsor 25 years ago and this week's visit to his former home was the second during that time. His present home is at Calgary.

Lester Patrick Teaches Amateurs Lots Of Tricks

Simon Pures to Start Real Competition on Ice Surface

WINNIPEG, Oct. 11. — "Like a vaudeville actor, a professional hockey player has to have a bag of tricks before he can start his act," Lester Patrick, New York Rangers' boss, said Thursday as he led his troupe of 32 hockey pupils onto the training camp ice here.

"That's what we try to teach our students—a bag of tricks," he said. Pupils are fresh and ready to go, daily adding new plays to their hockey repertoire, designed to help them along the road to professionalism.

The school has been underway a week now and everyone is determined to make the honors list when they write their examinations on blades next week.

"Like education, one cannot jump from public school into a university and the same thing applies to the higher hockey class," Patrick stated. Thus the high school education for the embryo professional is taught at his school.

Their lessons yesterday were: The sweeping hook check, the art of timing on passes, how to leave a puck for a trailing team mate, suggestions as to improvement of shooting and to flipping short passes over opposition sticks. The final five minutes were spent in a stamina test.

This stamina developer was termed "shinny on your own side," a hockey game in which one player tries to get the puck and keep it by skating and stick handling around his mates. The ice arena was divided into three zones with five players in each area, that is, having three shinny games at one time.

Today they will scrimmage and for a short time actually play hockey.

BALL SERIES TO CONTINUE IN BIG FOUR

President Niewchas To Make Teams Play Three-of-Five Series

The Big Four Baseball League playoff squabble has now been cleared up and according to Dr. Walter Niewchas, president of the league, National Home Furnishers and Empire Hotel will resume their three-out-of-five affair Sunday afternoon at 1:30 on the Boyle St. sandlot.

The Nationals were proclaimed champions last week when it was assumed that the playoff series had been changed to a two-out-of-three series and when the former club won both games they automatically claimed the title. Empires objected, claiming that it was a three-out-of-five series, and Dr. Niewchas supported their protest. He announced that the teams will play Sunday. If the Nationals win the first game it will be all over but should Empires win two games will be played.

WHITE PLAINS CHAMP STARTS OUT STRONGLY

Four Under Par With Brilliant Round In $5,000 Event

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 11 — Pitching a 160-yard approach straight into the cup for an eagle two on the 16th hole, Paul Runyan, White Plains, N.Y., Professional Golfers' Association champion of the United States, scored a 67, four under par, to take the lead in the $5,000 Louisville open golf tournament here Thursday.

Runyan missed a two-footer for a par four on the 18th hole, losing a chance to tie the course record of 66. He scored 34-33, with one birdie on the first nine and three birdies and an eagle on the second.

Second place was occupied by Victor Ghezzi, Deal, N.J., who put together rounds of 33-35—68. Terl Johnson, Winter Haven, Fla., and Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., trailed Ghezzi by one stroke.

Johnson was three over par on the first nine with a 38 but equalled the course record coming in with a 31, five under perfect figures.

Richard Burton, long driving member of the English Ryder Cup team, gave an excellent performance, whipping par by one stroke with a 70. Four other members of the English team were well up in the running, each scoring 75's. They are: J. J. Busson, W. V. Cox, E. G. Jarmon and A. F. Padgham. The other British golfers are listed for play today.

HANK GREENBERG FRETS AT DELAY

DETROIT, Oct. 11.—Hank Greenberg, the big first baseman of the world champion Detroit Tigers, fretted at the delay to his vacation caused by a plaster cast encasing his left wrist, fractured a week ago in the second game of the series with the Chicago Cubs.

The third set of x-rays of the wrist disclosed the fracture Wednesday night. Previous photographs made after Greenberg's collision with Catcher Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs in the seventh inning had not disclosed the minute cracks, Dr. William E. Keane, Tiger physician, said.

Dr. Keane said the injury was not serious, and that the wrist would be "as good as new" after six weeks of treatment. He paid tribute to the courage of the Detroit first-sacker, who played two innings of baseball after incurring the painful injury.

He derived a measure of consolation, however, from the information that he would not be handicapped by the injury when another baseball season rolls around.

NEW ENGLAND GRID BATTLES ARE IMPROVED

Football To Be Best In Years As Teams Are Strengthened

By TUSS McLAUGHRY

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Oct. 11. — What outstanding football teams will be developed in New England before Thanksgiving rolls around hardly can be predicted at this early stage. One thing we do know in this section, however, and that is that New England will furnish more good football and better teams than has been the case for a number of years.

Yale is preparing with renewed confidence, which is stimulated by her great victory over Princeton in 1934. That game lifted Yale's morale tremendously, and with the return of 10 lettermen, which includes five good backs, Eli followers are justified in looking forward with a degree of satisfaction.

RESERVES COUNT

Yale's success in a big way will depend on how many capable reserves can be developed, as the number of good men who have proved themselves is not large. Ducky Pond and Greasy Neale have inspired the confidence which goes to make success, and my feeling is that Yale will be a hard team to defeat.

In Boston, which at one time was considered the metropolis of football, three good teams are in prospect—Harvard, Boston College and Boston University. At Medford, Tufts is preparing for another undefeated season.

Harvard has 22 lettermen reporting, accompanied by a good freshman team from 1934. From the standpoint of material it is considered the best in a number of years. Added to this, the squad is to be handled by the old master, Dick Harlow.

These factors are sufficient to justify high hopes on the part of Harvard adherents, for it may presage a return to the eminence of the Percy Haughton era, which was the golden age of Harvard football.

BOSTON GOES PLACES

Boston College under her new coach, "Dinny" McNamara, has an abundance of strong veteran material which may be the makings of an outstanding team.

Boston University without doubt will have the best team in its history. This will be Coach Pat Hanley's second year at the helm. He has a veteran team plus a great group of sophomores. He has perfected a coaching organization of merit, which, aided by a great influx of good material last fall, has made the Terriers formidable to the degree that all New England is watching with much interest.

TUFTS RISE AGAIN

In 1934 Tufts College was one of the few undefeated teams in the country. It is being coached by Lewis Manley, a Wooster College (Ohio) product, who has been doing a fine job. Tufts again is expected to be near the top in the small college group.

From the standpoint of rivalry and keen competition, no group in the country is superior to the Maine colleges of Bates, Bowdoin, Colby, and Maine. With the exception of Maine, which is below par in veteran material, all are starting in with big squads and high hopes.

Dave Morey at Bates, who always has good teams, has a big heavy squad hard at work.

You lads who have an urge to kick long, twisting spirals, take notice. Here is how an expert does it. . . . Andy Palau, shifty quarterback of the Fordham football team, and the team's star kicker, performs for the magic eye camera and shows exactly how one gets distance by kicking a twisting spiral punt, which is also difficult to catch. Note how Palau stands almost at right angles to the field. Bringing his kicking foot around to face the field as the ball bounds off his instep. This gives the ball the twisting motion that gives length and speed to the punt.

Gridiron Battles Only Big Hobby To Colorado Star

BOULDER, Colo., Oct. 11. — A gridiron as only a dance floor and a broken field dash as a variation of fast tap—that's football to Bill (Kayo) Lam, 154-pound quarterback at Colorado U.

In fact, football was described by Lam as mostly a hobby and a diversion, for all his record of last season as one of the best backs in the United States from a standpoint of yardage gained.

Lam carried the ball 110 times in eight games in 1934 for a total of 906 yards, an average of 8.2 yards per try, and was second high scorer in the Rocky Mountain conference with 55 points.

But rhythm is Lam's true love—and business.

By leading an orchestra at school dances he earns his way through college.

He plays the drums and a couple of other instruments, croons a bit through a small megaphone and tap dances when the crowd asks for it. He's been tapping since he was seven.

Inkster has gained a lot of followers since his arrival here from Vancouver, but he will have to pack a lot of stuff to whip Blochlinger, who is at the peak of his form.

SOCCER LEADERS ARE FAVORED

POORER CLUBS GIVEN CHANCE ON SATURDAY

Celtic, Aberdeen, Rangers Have Easy Teams To Play

GLASGOW, Oct. 11.—Underdogs of Scottish football have an opportunity to steal the spotlight in Saturday's list of First Division fixtures. Celic, Aberdeen and the Rangers, the leading home teams, are all opposed by clubs upon whom fortune has smiled infrequently this season.

The leading Colts are at home to Clyde. The Shawfield Park side is only two rungs removed from the bottom of the league ladder. The Dons go to Arbroath, babe of the division.

Another Glasgow derby sees Third Lanark and Rangers face each other at Cathkin. Third Lanark is hoping for a victory similar to that two weeks ago, when they smirched Aberdeen's unbeaten record.

St. Mirren has lengthened its lead at the top of the Second Division and is now two points ahead of Morton. Playing at home, it is not unlikely the Paisley lads will widen their margin against Leith Athletic, but Morton is up against a tough proposition in St. Bernards.

Cantonwine Draws With Vic Christie

TORONTO, Oct. 11. — Howard Cantonwine, of Portland, and Vic Christie, of California, wrestled to a draw here last night, each getting one fall in the one-hour limit affair.

Cantonwine, at 236 pounds, won the first fall in 43 minutes and 14 seconds. Christie, 206, won the second in 10:02. They struggled vainly to get a third fall but the bell beat them to it.

Ted Christie, 212, California, won the one fall semi-final, downing Al Mercier, 212, Philadelphia, in 14:21.

STANFORD HAS TEAM TO BEAT IN GRID WARS

Champions of Past Two Years Again Tops in West Coast

By BILL SPAULDING

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11—Time was when there were a few soft touches here and there throughout the Pacific Coast Conference for the relief of hard-working and sleep-losing coaches. This year, however, conditions are so improved that not even the Bruins of U.C.L.A., youngest member of the group, figure to be pushovers.

It's the tradition in sizing up the conference situation to pick Stanford, champion for the last two years, as the team to beat. Being a stickler for tradition, I'll string along with the rest of the guessers.

SURE TO WIN

I do know this much—there are a lot of other clubs I'd sooner be playing than Stanford on Oct. 12. I've told my boys that Stanford most certainly is the team to beat, and I expect they'll try to follow orders. If they fail, I shall not be at all surprised.

Any team with a line cracker like Bob Grayson, flanked by a running halfback like Bones Hamilton, figures to gain yardage on running attack. Add to the backfield a kicker and blocker like Frank Alustiza, and a passing and kicking back like this newcomer, Bill Paulman, and the combination is all the tougher to stop.

Much depends, of course, on how Paulman comes through. He has speed and drive, and really can pass. Lack of an accurate tosser was Stanford's principal weakness last season, and Paulman ought to be a big help if he comes through.

DESERVED MENTION

Dale Beedle at right tackle succeeds Galloway, and should make a fine running-mate for Bob Reynolds, who deserved the All-American mention he received last season.

Nine regulars to start with, plus a fine freshman squad and a few junior college transfers — that's what "Tiny" Thornhill was handed. He ought to do well.

"Stub" Allison, California's new coach, is another who has fine material with which to work.

THE QUESTION IS

The question is: Can Allison mold all this fine sophomore material into a team that will click? It's quite a job, but it has been done. Thornhill did it at Stanford in 1933, and has the nucleus of that same team still functioning.

Allison has yet to find his best combination, and when he does it's a question of how many sophomores will be included.

Washington State is one of the strong teams that stands a good chance of coming through with a clear record—if for no other reason than the Cougars do not meet Stanford. Washington and Southern California are "Babe" Hollingberry's chief hurdles, with St. Mary's a dangerous non-conference opponent.

Hollingberry has a strong first team, featuring such splendid backs as Gustofferson and Goddard behind a powerful and hard-charging line. He has good men in reserve for almost every position,

SHY ON SUBS

Jimmy Phelan has a good first team at University of Washington, but is somewhat shy on substitutes. His sophomore backfield combination of '34, Ed. Nowogroski, Elmer Logg, Jim Cain, and Byron Haines, showed plenty last year, and should be even more dangerous this season.

Southern California, ruler of the coast roost for quite a spell, should show considerable improvement over last year's disappointing record. The Trojans have a large squad from which to select.

Howard Jones intends to specialize in speed and agility this year, so I am told, and has men to fill those requirements—such as Quarterback Dave Davis; Bill Howard, shifted to fullback; and Cliff Propst, hard-running fullback. Trojan line play is bound to be improved.

BUILT UP SQUAD

Oregon State failed to win a conference game last year, but Lon Stiner has a flock of mighty good sophomores. There, again—as in the California instance—it's a question of how soon Lon will be able to mold the right combination from his new men.

University of Oregon lost some valuable men by graduation, but "Prink" Callison is fairly well fixed with reserve material. Looks as if he will have a strong line, but backs look somewhat doubtful.

Idaho and Montana have new coaches. Ted Bank, who was assistant to Bernie Bierman at Tulane, takes over the Vandals, while Doug Fessenden, late of Fengler High, Chicago, is in charge at Montana. Neither team figures very strongly.

SMALLEST SQUAD

At U. C. L. A. we have one of the smallest squads of record—35 men. Several are pretty fair football players, able to play various positions. They'll have to "double in brass" if we are to get by, but they might be able to, at that.

Our backfield shapes up pretty well, with such men as Chuck Cheshire, Fred Funk, Bill Williams, Walt Schell, Ted Key, and Bill Spaulding able to run, block, pass, and kick. Our chief trouble is lack of line reserves.

HOLM WARNS SWIM STARS OF HOLLAND

Pretty Champion Gives Olympic Team Word Of Advice

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 11—Eleanor Holm, pretty back-stroke swimming champion of the U.S. women's Olympic team, sounded a blue note Thursday over the 1936 prospects—as blue as those she puts into song with her husband's dance orchestra.

"Look out for Holland," warned the trim wife of Art Jarrett. "They have in a broad-shouldered girl, Willimijntje Den Ouden, a possible winner of three events, quite enough to take the Olympic title away from our team at Berlin if the other places are evenly distributed.

"Right now I would say the American team can be sure of only one event, the 100-metre backstroke."

Miss Holm holds the record of one minute 18.3 seconds for that and she intends to defend it at Berlin, become the first Uited States girl to compete in three Olympics and then step out of the amateur class—probably into a moving picture career.

The Holland girl, 14 at the time of the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles, finished only one second behind Helene Madison of the United States in the 100-metre free style event and Miss Madison had to set a new record to beat her.

Milwaukee Gets Hockey Franchise

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 11—James B. Mahler, representative of a group of Milwaukee sportsmen, announced yesterday his group had acquired a franchise in the American Hockey association for 1936.

When Milwaukee is ready to place a team on the ice next winter the league will include Tulsa, St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Hibbing, Indianapolis and Des Moines, Mahler said. The latter two cities with Milwaukee, will be new members, he said.

A PRACTICE SQUEEZE

Playing for top score in duplicate games better trains players to try for the last possible trick than does playing ordinary money games. This is plainly noted in cities like Cleveland and states like Maine, where unusual interest exists in team-of-four and pair contests. Here is a hand from Portland. Its declarer was not satisfied to play for 4-odd, as practice in obtaining the last possible trick he tried for a squeeze, which few money players might do.

West	North	East
	♠ K 9 8 6 3
	♥ K 7
	♦ 10 8 6 2
	♣ K 8
♠ J 10		♠ 7 3
♥ J 9 5 2		♥ A 8 6
♦ A K J 7 4		♦ Q 5 3
♣ Q 7		♣ J 10 6 4 3
	South
	♠ A Q 5 2
	♥ Q 10 4 3
	♣ A 9 5 2

North and South were vulnerable and the contract was 4 spades. The opening lead was the K of Diamonds, which was followed by the ace. South ruffed. He led a low heart and dummy's K lost to the ace. East led back a trump—a rather futile gesture towards preventing dummy from ruffing hearts when it held five trumps. From that time on South kept control of events. If any other procedure could have prevented what followed, the trump lead lost the opportunity.

South won the spade lead with his Q, then led his ace to pick up the last two missing trumps. Dummy's K of clubs won the sixth trick. Declarer's last trump ruffed dummy's 8 of diamonds. The ace of clubs won the next trick and dummy ruffed the 5 of clubs, in an attempt to squeeze opponents. At the tenth trick dummy's K of spades was led, leaving the holding: about the table as shown.

West	North	East
	♦ 10
♥ J 9		♥ 8 6
♦ J		♣ J
	South
	♥ Q 10

The fatal eleventh trick was won with dummy's last trump, forcing the remaining players to again discard. East let go one of his useless hearts. When East held his winning club declarer's useless club was discarded. West was squeezed. If he let go the top diamond dummy's 10 would win the next trick and the Q of hearts would win the eleventh trick for the declaring side. If West let go one of his hearts the Q would pick up West's J and the 10 would win the last trick. West had to take a chance that declarer might make a mistake, and West dropped the 9 of hearts, but South made no mistake. He made his 5-odd.

Many squeezes are preventable, provided the defenders anticipate what the declarer will attempt. Before tomorrow see if East can prevent the squeeze, when he wins the third trick with his ace of hearts.

Belligerent, Is Sent To Jail

DRUMHELLER, Oct. 11.—Joe Fojcik, a transient harvester, worked three hours on a threshing gang at the Lenglet farm near Rosebud this week before deciding to quit. Joe demanded half a day's pay in addition to the three meals and a night's lodging he had already received. When farmer Lenglet protested, Joe threatened to burn up the entire threshing outfit and showed violent tendencies.

The belligerent harvester was somewhat subdued when he appeared before W. V. Kempt, J.P., at Rosebud, Thursday, where he received a two months vacation from the harvest fields. Constable Gillespie of the R.C.M.P. who arrested Fojcik, handled the prosecution.

Terry Turns Down Cardinal Offer

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Manager Bill Terry of New York Giants Thursday said he had refused an offer by St. Louis Cardinals to trade first baseman Jim "Rip" Collins and outfielder Joe Medwick for pitcher Carl Hubbell and outfielder Mel Ott, Giant stars.

The offer, Terry said, was made by Branch Rickey of the Cardinals during the second game of the world series at Detroit.

CANDIDATES GIVE VIEWS ON ELECTION

done immediately if we are to solve the problem of unemployment and provide the needs of life," he said.

The whole question lay in the control of currency and credit, he said, declaring that the Bank of Canada was controlled by outside interests, the international bankers.

He felt that a greater variety of parties in Ottawa would benefit parliament in working out better policies.

"We are arriving at a point at which all things are produced mechanically and those who work and need purchasing power find themselves in a worse and worse position," he said. "Our plan is to put purchasing power in the hands of the people by a national dividend."

ACT ONLY RELIEF

Hitting out at Premier Bennett's Employment and Social Insurance Act, Miss Crawford held that "This unemployment insurance is just relief and if you go on strike you don't get it or if you support your fellow man when he goes on strike you don't get it."

Mr. Bennett's "courageous reforms," she said, showed "the courage of a bully but not the courage of a statesman."

She declared that Mr. King had lost Canada's markets in 1930. "I'm not blaming the Liberals but why do they blame anyone who didn't get them back?"

When goods were produced, but the power to purchase them not returned to the people in the form of wages, she said, it resulted in a glut in every country. "The days of selling surpluses are over. We have to distribute them among our people and then have an exchange of the balance for goods which we cannot efficiently produce ourselves. The glut of goods leads to war," she added.

DENIES COLLUSION

Taking his first part in politics in his life when he felt that Hon. H. H. Stevens was the one man who would right the flagrant abuses in big business which were at the root of the country's troubles, Mr. Burrows stated that the platform of the Reconstruction party would give the people of Canada a share in production instead of huge profits going to a few corporations and corporation heads.

Speaking of the report that Bennett and Stevens were "just like that," (twisting one finger around the next), he declared emphatically, "Folks it's not so."

Speaking of stock manipulations in large companies, low prices to primary producers and sweat shop conditions he said, "Don't kid yourselves that you can handle it in any but a practical way."

"Our plan is to lay down rules and laws for the operation of business. If we can't I see only revolution as an alternative."

SAYS DOUBLE-CROSSED

Mr. Unwin, speaking for Dr. Hall, declared that Dr. Ghostley had agreed to abide by the decision of the advisory committee on nominations and then "double-crossed" the party. "If he double-crossed us, what would he do to you in Ottawa . . . he would sell you out body and soul."

Issuing of "money tickets" by the government would solve 95 per cent of the country's troubles, he said. Socialization of industry was not the root of conditions.

He stated the B.N.A. act did not need changing to permit issuance of money. He spoke on tariffs, stating they should perform a useful function if properly used.

The ultimate aim of Communism was an international, classless society, without oppression or exploitation, the immediate aim securing of power in government, Mr. Doolan told the audience.

Economic security and war are the greatest present problems, he said. "We have no guarantee that the means whereby we live today will be there in two weeks," he declared.

FIRST OBJECTIVE

One of the first objectives of the Communists if elected to parliament was the non-contributory unemployment and social insurance bill. A moratorium on the entire interest of the public debt would provide money for the insurance bill fund, he said.

On the war subject he said, "If war grows out of the capitalistic system and only benefits a small class, there is no reason why we should fight a war." He declared that the strength of the Communist organization made every Red candidate the most powerful parliamentarian in his constituency.

The C. C. F. planned to end poverty by removing the root cause, Elmer Roper said, by socializing the means of production.

He said a vote for the C. C. F. was a vote for a change, and a vote for any other party a vote for "things as they are."

As a minority group, holding the balance of power in parliament, he said the C.C.F. could force legislation for the good of the people to be passed by unwilling governments.

Dachshunds Are Rivals For Flush

Because Flush, famous spaniel pet of Katharine Cornell, can't stand travel well, two rivals have won a place in his mistress's affections. Fork Rescues Thresher Man In Deft Move

BRUCE, Oct. 11.—Threshing here is about completed, with scant returns and notably without serious accident. In at least one instance, what might have been an unforunatte accident became merely a laughable incident.

While threshing a hailed crop for Julius Lutz, one of the teamsters, Mike Kobilnyk, lost his balance, made a wild attempt to maintain equilibrium and nose-dived for the moving drive-belt of the machine. Prompt action by a fellow pitcher, Joe Muik, who impaled the slack of Mike's overalls with a bundle fork, brought him back to the perpendicular.

MUCH GRAIN SHIPPED

THREE HILLS, Oct. 11.—A sudden change in temperature Monday night brought rain and high winds, which halted threshing for a few days. About a month of ideal weather for harvest has brought an enormous amount of grain to the elevators. About 18 cars of wheat are being shipped every day.

LOST EXPORTS VALUED AT $3,250,000

Ottawa's Last Year's Figures Show What Loss Means

OTTAWA, Oct. 11.—Application of League of Nations sanctions against Italy would cost Canada loss of export trade worth $3,260,000 last year, official trade figures disclose.

Canada's trade with Italy, fostered by a most-favored-nation treaty signed in 1923, brought $2,300,000 worth of Italian goods into this country last year. During the first five months this year the Dominion sent Italy $1,887,882 worth of goods and received from the Mediterranean kingdom $1,422,284 worth.

Figures show 47.2 per cent of the Dominion's exports to Italy the fiscal year ended last March 31 were raw materials while 19.4 per cent were partially manufactured and 33.4 per cent fully manufactured.

Recent aviation patents include a device which is claimed will detect the approach of enemy airplanes.
